JITTERY LATIN AMERICA TENSIONS ON INCREASE

Carrier Fire Fatality Total Is Set At 91

Mysterious Explosions Probed; No Sabotage Indications Revealed

QUONSET POINT, R. I. (AP)—The Navy counted 91 known dead today and 201 injured, many of them critically, in the devastating explosion-fire aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington 75 miles at sea.

The 32,000-ton carrier, a proud bearer of numerous battle honors in World War II, was rocked by the disaster early yesterday off the New England coast.

A violent blast on the second or third deck below the flight deck was followed by searing flames which roared through many forward compartments. Then came at least one more explosion.

Scores were trapped in sleeping quarters. Many suffocated. Many perished in the flames.

The disaster, one of the worst in peacetime U. S. naval history, was the second aboard a carrier in New England waters in less than a year. Last October, 37 died in an explosion and fire on the carrier Leyte while she was docked in Boston.

A FOUR-MAN court of inquiry, headed by Rear Adm. John M. Hoskins, commandant of the Quonset Naval Air Station, was named to begin investigating.

Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas, who flew to Quonset for a quick inspection, and Capt. William F. Raborn Jr., Bennington skipper, said there was no indication of sabotage.

Raborn, from Oklahoma City, said the cause of the explosion is a mystery to me."

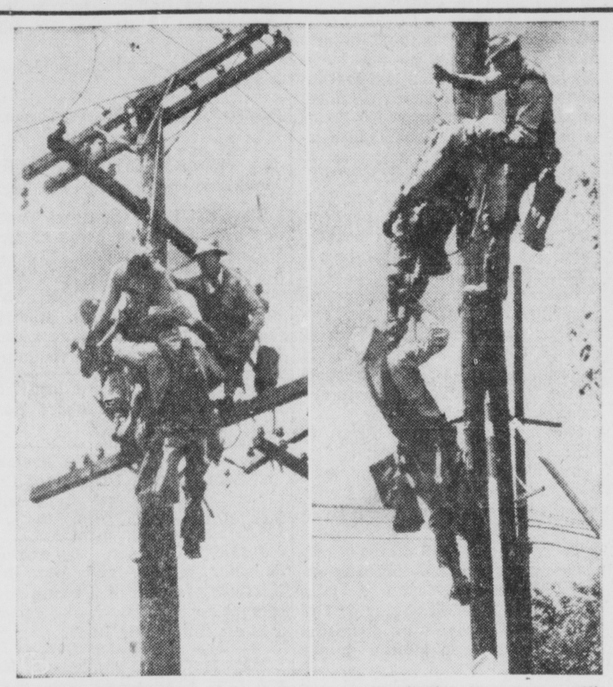

"All leads have proved groundless," he said. "There was nothing explosive in the area where the explosions took place."

The "best information," he said, is that the blast occurred "possibly at the five-inch fuse magazine." He emphasized this information had not been confirmed.

The big carrier was en route back to Newport, across Narragansett Bay from Quonset Point, on a routine training mission.

Aboard were four squadrons of about 130 men each which make up

U.S. Opposes Partitioning Associated Indochina States

GENEVA (AP)—The United States was reported determined today to stand firmly against any settlement of the Indochina problem which would partition territory of the Associated States.

This view was reported by authoritative quarters as the nine-party Indochina conference prepared to meet again in secret session to consider defining assembly areas into which the military forces of the two sides would be regrouped after a cease fire.

Viet Nam sources said the proposals submitted Tuesday by Communist - led Vietminh definitely would result in the partition of Viet Nam and would be strongly opposed by the Vietnamese.

Informed quarters said the United States had not yet taken a definite position on the Vietminh proposals, but that the first reaction of the U. S. delegation was that the proposals go a great deal farther than the United States is prepared to go.

BRITISH FOREIGN Secretary Anthony Eden has proposed that military representatives of the "two commands" meet in Geneva immediately to work out the lines of the proposed assembly areas.

An unidentified French general was reported rushing here from Indochina to represent French Union forces if such talks are authorized. He would sit down with an opposite number in the Communist-led Vietminh regime.

The urgency of the situation was stressed once more as French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault returned from Paris with orders to break off discussions if the conference fails to produce results soon.

A spokesman for the French cabinet said Bidault had reported the conference "should take a decisive turn in about 8 or 10 days."

These figures seemed to have special significance when compared with Eden's statement last Monday that this week or the next would be decisive. The two statements appeared to point to June 5 as the date when the fate of the conference might become known.

The Eden plan proposed that representatives of the two commands in Indochina undertake as their first task the problem of working out areas in Viet Nam where troops would be assembled after a cease-fire.

The conference, meanwhile, would continue discussion on other military matters, beginning with arrangements for international supervision of the armistice.

There was no definite word as to the Communist postition on the Eden proposal.

Longshoremen Vote Edge To Old Union

NEW YORK (AP) — The old International Longshoremen's union again has won an indecisive margin over its AFL rival in a National Labor Relations Board election and the final result hinges on challenged ballots.

The situation today is about the same as it was five months ago when the racket-tainted ILA had a vote edge over the newly formed AFL-ILA.

That NLRB election was scrapped because ILA adherents employed strong-arm tactics and intimidation at the polls, with brawls and bloodshed generating terror on the waterfront.

In yesterday's new election, almost everybody played the part of a perfect gentleman. Heavy details of police (2500 on special duty in New York City and about 500 others on the New Jersey side of the port) had little to do. NLRB Regional Director Charles T. Douds said the election was the "most orderly" he had ever seen.

The NLRB announced last night that the ILA held a lead of 319 votes over the AFL-ILA in the bitter struggle for certification as bargaining agent for the Port of New York's dockworkers.

There were 1,797 challenged ballots, and Douds said it may take from six weeks to two months to investigate and tally them and decide the winner.

Spokesmen for each union predicted victory after the challenged ballots are counted. It was not reported how many of them had been challenged by each union.

Knife-Wielder Faces Accusation

STEUBENVILLE (AP) — A brawl in the Brilliant Post of the American Legion last Saturday night led today to a charge of cutting with intent to wound against Aaron Fredley Jr., 25, of Ashtabula.

He is accused of slicing a cheese knife into the neck and back of James Tate, 39, of Brilliant. Tate is in fair condition at Ohio Valley Hospital here. Miss Janet Bensel, 21, of Ashtabula, is being held as a material witness.

Senate GOP Plans To Quit On July 31

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders today stuck by their predictions that Congress should adjourn by July 31 despite Democratic doubts that it will.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said after a meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee yesterday that Congress would be lucky to go home by Aug. 15.

But Republican Leader Knowland of California and Chairman Ferguson (Mich) of the GOP Policy Committee, said they remained optimistic about the end-of-July target.

"I have not changed my estimate at all," Knowland said. "Assuming we will receive a degree of cooperation from the Democrats on legislation yet to be acted upon, I don't see any reason why we can't meet it."

There are in the Senate 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats, 1 independent and 1 vacancy.

Johnson cited a long list of items on President Eisenhower's program yet to be considered.

Included are the tax revision bill, social security, farm price supports, health legislation, housing, foreign aid, reciprocal trade, revision of the Atomic Energy Act and an increase in the national debt limit.

The biggest legislative logjam is in the Senate, partly because the House limits debate while the Senate cannot. Knowland asserted, and Johnson conceded, that in one respect (the money bills to run the government in the next year) this session is far ahead of the pace of recent years.

Marlow Ponders Hensel's Position In McCarthy Row

Was H. Struve Hensel wise in allowing himself to be dismissed as a principal in the Army-McCarthy row?

It's a question that James Marlow, one of The Herald's top-flight columnists, believes only time can answer. In this issue, Marlow discusses Hensel's position in the hot and tangled controversy.

Marlow, in his column, "World Today", points out that Hensel, by staying in the case, would have had an opportunity — along with his attorney—to cross-examine McCarthy. But the senator, in turn, would have also had the chance to question the assistant secretary of defense.

It's only one of the many interesting questions that have been coming and going through the daily story of the Army-McCarthy hearings. Read about it today in Marlow's column.

Ohio Democrat Hears GOP Out To 'Get' Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) said today national Republican officials plan to go "all out" to defeat him next November because of his objections to the course of an inquiry into tax-exempt foundations.

Hays told newsmen a Republican informant he did not name had relayed word that the GOP National Committee says "money will flow like water into Hays' district and we'll spend twice as much as we did before."

Rep. Reece (R-Tenn), former Republican National Committee chairman who heads a special House Committee conducting the foundation inquiry, said Hays was taking a "diversionary" tack "to frustrate the hearings." There was no immediate comment from the GOP National Committee.

Hays and Reece have tangled repeatedly during the hearings, now in recess until next Wednesday. The group was set up last year to conduct a general inquiry into tax-exempt foundations.

Hays said he believes the foundations hearings were "designed to smear the Eisenhower Administration by impugning certain persons known to be highly placed in this Administration—Paul Hoffman, the Rockefellers and the Fords."

"I don't like to take sides in a Republican fight," he continued, "but my sense of fair play won't permit me to remain quiet when an obscure witness with no national standing comes in to use a congressional committee hearing as a vehicle to smear people."

Reece said the question of a split among Republicans has no bearing on the hearings. "No such issue is involved," he said, adding:

"The investigation is to determine the extent to which tax exempt funds have been used to help finance and promote socialism in the United States."

Reappraisal Order Reflects Steady Shift In Tax Load

Distortion Of Sales Levy Law Intent, Increased Pressure On School Districts Pinch Counties

The Herald in today's issue brings its readers the second and concluding installment of the story behind the pending reappraisal of real property in Pickaway County. The recheck on property values has been ordered by the State Board of Tax Appeals, claiming the appraisal and assessment methods used here in recent years have not conformed to state requirements.

In the interests of a fair study of the whole picture, The Herald has drawn attention to a link between this pending action and a highly dangerous policy built up by state legislation over the past 15 years—a growing tendency to force more and more of the burden of local government back on real estate, in direct defiance of the electors.

The first installment of the story, which provides much of the background needed for a better understanding of today's concluding piece, appeared in Wednesday's issue of The Herald.

Retracing the tax picture as it has fluctuated, under economic trends and strange legislative steps since the 20's, the first article emphasized how the true intent of the Sales Tax Law has been distorted at the expense of the taxpayers. And how the squeeze continues.

Wednesday's article ended with reference to the mandated levy against real estate and personal property for operation purposes, before schools are qualified to receive additional aid from the state funds. Now the story turns to the more recent development facing Pickaway County—the call for reappraisal of real property throughout the county.

The concluding article follows:

While the tax pinch has gradually tightened over the years on local governments and local school districts, another branch of the state government—the Board of Tax Appeals—has been forcing increases in real estate valuations over the entire state.

This is still another method of shifting the burden of taxation to local real estate.

When the plan to increase values was first inaugurated, county officials were urged to boost their valuations but were told they need not increase taxes as they could reduce rates proportionately.

Then the mandated levies, as already explained, were forced upon us, which in reality increased both the valuations and the rate!

A number of counties were reluctant to increase their values to any great extent, many of the officials clearly remembering what had happened during the late 20's when valuations were boosted sky high. Many of the local officials were inclined to keep both feet on the ground and go slow during the period of inflation.

IN PICKAWAY County, the 1949 reappraisal showed an increase of about 12 percent in values. A survey made by the Board of Tax Appeals, by checking the revenue stamps on deeds filed in the County Recorder's office, showed — according to their method of calculation—that the values were low.

An increase of 15 percent additional was ordered by the Board of Tax Appeals.

This procedure was followed in a number of Ohio counties. Franklin county, for instance, was ordered to increase 18 percent.

On June 21, 1949, the 98th General Assembly, in one of the late days of the session, passed the so-called Hoffman Act known as House Bill 644, which provided that if county officials did not bring their appraisal of real estate up to a level fixed by the Board of Tax Appeals, then the State Auditor 'shall be directed to withhold 50 percent of the funds due the county from the state treasury for schools and local government."

The bill was "railroaded" through the state legislature without proper consideration by the Committee on Taxation, according to a member of the state legislature.

The bill set up no yardstick of measurement of tax values, but this was established by an opinion of the Board of Tax Appeals who ruled it should be 50 percent of the market selling price, which has no legal status.

NOW, SINCE the Constitution provides that real estate shall be assessed at its true value and since the Board of Tax Appeals has elected to make market value—as evidenced by the revenue stamps—its yardstick of measurement, and since the courts have repeatedly held that a willing buyer and willing seller establish the true value of an article, what authority has the Board of Tax Appeals to say that we shall adopt 50 percent of its true value in money?

If the board can say 50 percent

Ashville Gets Plans Rolling For Big 4th

Plans for the Independence Day celebration were given top priority in discussions held by the Ashville Community Club earlier this week.

President Robert Bausum presided over a business meeting, during which reports were given by Secretary Stanley Stout and Treasurer Dale Schiff. Announcement of the meeting was made Thursday.

The 4th of July celebration this year will be a three-day affair, beginning officially with a Little Miss Ashville Parade and contest at 2 p. m. on July 3, Saturday. The Miss Ashville Parade and contest will be held at 7:30 p. m. on the same day.

Judging will be in front of the bleachers in Community Park. Winners of the two contests will be awarded prizes and will appear in the July 5th parade.

SINCE THE Fourth will be a Sunday this year, no rides or concessions will be open during the morning worship hours, until noon. On the afternoon of The Fourth, a Western Horse Show and Rodeo will be held with awards and trophies for the winners. Rides and concessions will operate during the afternoons and evenings of the 3rd, 4th and all day and evening on the 5th.

The afternoon program on the 5th will feature a band concert by bands participating in the parade. All bands of this area are invited to take part in the parade and concert for which there will be a cash award of $25 for the parade and $15 for a fifteen minute concert in the afternoon.

Band leaders who wish to enter their band are asked to communicate with John B. Hardin, Ashville, band chairman.

It was also announced that $350 would be expended for fireworks and that the club would contribute at least $100 toward the park summer recreation program, which will be headed by William Barnetson, high school coach.

Another Major Battle Expected In Indochina

HANOI (AP)—A "little Dien Bien Phu" battle was shaping up today in the vital Red River Delta just 30 miles south of this war capital for the French union forces.

The French high command announced thousands of Communist led Vietminh regular troops were besieging the post of Yen Phu, guarding the gateway into the big race marketing and road junction town of Phu Ly.

As at Dien Bien Phu, the rebels after each heavy barrage of fire burrowed steadily closer in feverishly dug trenches. The Vietminh, estimated in a strength of 12 battalions, have kept Yen Phu encircled for two weeks.

Like Dien Bien Phu, it is being supplied solely by air.

U.S. Customs Aides Inspect French Ship

Arms For Guatemala May Be Aboard, So Say Yank Envoys

PANAMA (AP)—Tensions increased in jittery Central America today as U. S. customs inspectors at the Atlantic mouth of the Panama Canal ransacked the cargo of a French freighter, presumably for contraband arms.

An agent of the French Line at Cristobal said a search of its 8,693-ton freighter Wyoming began last night "in connection with the business in Guatemala."

He obviously referred to U. S. charges that leftist Guatemala recently received a large arms shipment from behind the Iron Curtain. Guatemala is one of the Wyoming's ports of call.

The agent declared, however, "There are no arms or contraband aboad." He said the ship carried only general cargo.

The Wyoming had been due to clear through tthe canal today en route to El Salvador, Guatemala, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Vancouver, B. C. But officials indicated she would not be ready to leave on schedule.

U S. STATE Department officials said in Washington the ship was being searched to determine whether customs regulations have been violated. The officials stressed that no suspicion had arisen with respect to the French Line itself.

They said both the line and the French government were cooperating in the inspection. This left the question whether the manifest might have been falsified.

The State Department announcement said:

"Before entering the canal, the French Line merchant vessel S. S. Wyoming, which is now at Cristo-

'Lunch Hour' Thug Admits 7 Bank Jobs

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Bernard E. LaClair, 31, the Fort Wayne, Ind., "lunch hour" bandit accused of nine bank robberies involving almost $169,000, pleaded guilty yesterday to holdups in Hamlet and in Bourbon, Ind.

At the same time he signed a waiver in federal court agreeing to face charges of five other bank robberies in four states.

Federal Judge Luther Swygert ordered probation investigations before he sentences LaClair and George M. Miller, 28, who pleaded guilty to an accessory charge.

It was Miller's free spending and speeding around Fort Wayne that led to his own arrest and to LaClair's last March.

The holdup in the Hamlet State Bank June 6, 1953, yielded $7,500, and the First State Bank at Bourbon was robbed of $9,500 July 25.

The holdup cases LaClair agreed to have moved to the court here are: Two robberies of an Old National Bank branch in Evansville, Ind., in 1953, with loot totaling $35,000; New Britain National Bank in Connecticut, $25,000, Jan. 6, 1953; Kenton Savings Bank, Dunkirk, Ohio, $4,063, May 16 1953; Union Trust Co., Springfield, Mass., $62,000, Jan. 26, 1954.

After his arrest, police said LaClair also admitted a $7,037 bank holdup at Ada, Ohio, and an $8,336 robbery at Forest, Ohio.

Old Testimony Being Read In Anti-Red Trial

COLUMBUS (AP)—Reading of testimony of four persons before the Ohio UnAmerican Activities Commission in April 1952 continued today in the trial of the four charged with contempt of the commission.

Charged with not answering commission questions on alleged Communist affiliations are Harry T. McGill of Dayton, Vassel Thamel, formerly of Dayton and now of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Melvin Hupman of Villars Chapel, and his wife, Julia Pearl Hupman.

Their attorney, J. Paul Prear of Dayton, indicated as the trial opened that the four, silent on the Communist question, might not testify in their own defense. He had asked prospective jurors what verdict they might consider if the four "presented no defense whatsoever."

Little light on the background of the four defendants appeared in the reading of the old transcripts.

Answers of Thamel, Mrs. Hupman and McGill during commission questioning usually followed this pattern:

"I refuse to answer under the provisions of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Hupman's testimony during commission questioning was not read yesterday.

Label Of 'Criminal' Hurled In McCarthy's Direction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) publicly suggested today that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and an Army officer who gave him classified information are "guilty of a crime."

"You cannot receive classified information obtained by criminal means without being guilty of a crime," McClellan told the Wisconsin senator in an angry exchange at the televised McCarthy-Army hearings.

McCarthy retorted that if anyone wants to indict him for getting information "exposing Communists let them go ahead."

McCarthy repeated that he would not reveal the name of the Army officer who he said gave him a summary of an FBI report dealing with security risks at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Earlier in the hearings, McCarthy unsuccessfully attempted to offer the summary in evidence. At the time, he represented it as a "letter" from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to the Army.

The subcommittee checked with Hoover and the FBI director said he had not written such a letter, but that the paper did quote from a more extensive FBI document.

Atty. Gen. Brownell ruled the "letter" should not be made public, that to do so would injure the national interest.

The matter came up today when McCarthy said McClellan had been quoted in newspaper stories as saying McCarthy "perhaps might be guilty of a crime."

"I repeat the statement," McClellan retorted.

McClellan added that in his opinion any unauthorized person cannot receive secret reports "without the probability of being guilty of a crime."

McCarthy told McClellan, "you feel that the man who gave

The biggest legislative logjam is in the Senate, partly because the House limits debate while the Senate cannot. Knowland asserted, and Johnson conceded, that in one respect (the money bills to run the government in the next year) this session is far ahead of the pace of recent years.

Marlow Ponders Hensel's Position In McCarthy Row

Was H. Struve Hensel wise in allowing himself to be dismissed as a principal in the Army-McCarthy row?

It's a question that James Marlow, one of The Herald's top-flight columnists, believes only time can answer. In this issue, Marlow discusses Hensel's position in the hot and tangled controversy.

Marlow, in his column, "World Today", points out that Hensel, by staying in the case, would have had an opportunity — along with his attorney—to cross-examine McCarthy. But the senator, in turn, would have also had the chance to question the assistant secretary of defense.

It's only one of the many interesting questions that have been coming and going through the daily story of the Army-McCarthy hearings. Read about it today in Marlow's column.

Ohio Democrat Hears GOP Out To 'Get' Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) said today national Republican officials plan to go "all out" to defeat him next November because of his objections to the course of an inquiry into tax-exempt foundations.

Hays told newsmen a Republican informant he did not name had relayed word that the GOP National Committee says "money will flow like water into Hays' district and we'll spend twice as much as we did before."

Rep. Reece (R-Tenn), former Republican National Committee chairman who heads a special House Committee conducting the foundation inquiry, said Hays was taking a "diversionary" tack "to frustrate the hearings." There was no immediate comment from the GOP National Committee.

Hays and Reece have tangled repeatedly during the hearings, now in recess until next Wednesday. The group was set up last year to conduct a general inquiry into tax-exempt foundations.

Hays said he believes the foundations hearings were "designed to smear the Eisenhower Administration by impugning certain persons known to be highly placed in this Administration—Paul Hoffman, the Rockefellers and the Fords."

"I don't like to take sides in a Republican fight," he continued, "but my sense of fair play won't permit me to remain quiet when an obscure witness with no national standing comes in to use a congressional committee hearing as a vehicle to smear people."

Reece said the question of a split among Republicans has no bearing on the hearings. "No such issue is involved," he said, adding:

"The investigation is to determine the extent to which tax exempt funds have been used to help finance and promote socialism in the United States."

Reappraisal Order Reflects Steady Shift In Tax Load

Distortion Of Sales Levy Law Intent, Increased Pressure On School Districts Pinch Counties

The Herald in today's issue brings its readers the second and concluding installment of the story behind the pending reappraisal of real property in Pickaway County. The recheck on property values has been ordered by the State Board of Tax Appeals, claiming the appraisal and assessment methods used here in recent years have not conformed to state requirements.

In the interests of a fair study of the whole picture, The Herald has drawn attention to a link between this pending action and a highly dangerous policy built up by state legislation over the past 15 years—a growing tendency to force more and more of the burden of local government back on real estate, in direct defiance of the electors.

The first installment of the story, which provides much of the background needed for a better understanding of today's concluding piece, appeared in Wednesday's issue of The Herald.

Retracing the tax picture as it has fluctuated, under economic trends and strange legislative steps since the 20's, the first article emphasized how the true intent of the Sales Tax Law has been distorted at the expense of the taxpayers. And how the squeeze continues.

Wednesday's article ended with reference to the mandated levy against real estate and personal property for operation purposes, before schools are qualified to receive additional aid from the state funds. Now the story turns to the more recent development facing Pickaway County—the call for reappraisal of real property throughout the county.

The concluding article follows:

While the tax pinch has gradually tightened over the years on local governments and local school districts, another branch of the state government—the Board of Tax Appeals—has been forcing increases in real estate valuations over the entire state.

This is still another method of shifting the burden of taxation to local real estate.

When the plan to increase values was first inaugurated, county officials were urged to boost their valuations but were told they need not increase taxes as they could reduce rates proportionately.

Then the mandated levies, as already explained, were forced upon us, which in reality increased both the valuations and the rate!

A number of counties were reluctant to increase their values to any great extent, many of the officials clearly remembering what had happened during the late 20's when valuations were boosted sky high. Many of the local officials were inclined to keep both feet on the ground and go slow during the period of inflation.

IN PICKAWAY County, the 1949 reappraisal showed an increase of about 12 percent in values. A survey made by the Board of Tax Appeals, by checking the revenue stamps on deeds filed in the County Recorder's office, showed — according to their method of calculation—that the values were low.

An increase of 15 percent additional was ordered by the Board of Tax Appeals.

This procedure was followed in a number of Ohio counties. Franklin county, for instance, was ordered to increase 18 percent.

On June 21, 1949, the 98th General Assembly, in one of the late days of the session, passed the so-called Hoffman Act known as House Bill 644, which provided that if county officials did not bring their appraisal of real estate up to a level fixed by the Board of Tax Appeals, then the State Auditor 'shall be directed to withhold 50 percent of the funds due the county from the state treasury for schools and local government."

The bill was "railroaded" through the state legislature without proper consideration by the Committee on Taxation, according to a member of the state legislature.

The bill set up no yardstick of measurement of tax values, but this was established by an opinion of the Board of Tax Appeals who ruled it should be 50 percent of the market selling price, which has no legal status.

NOW, SINCE the Constitution provides that real estate shall be assessed at its true value and since the Board of Tax Appeals has elected to make market value—as evidenced by the revenue stamps—its yardstick of measurement, and since the courts have repeatedly held that a willing buyer and willing seller establish the true value of an article, what authority has the Board of Tax Appeals to say that we shall adopt 50 percent of its true value in money?

If the board can say 50 percent

Ashville Gets Plans Rolling For Big 4th

Plans for the Independence Day celebration were given top priority in discussions held by the Ashville Community Club earlier this week.

President Robert Bausum presided over a business meeting, during which reports were given by Secretary Stanley Stout and Treasurer Dale Schiff. Announcement of the meeting was made Thursday.

The 4th of July celebration this year will be a three-day affair, beginning officially with a Little Miss Ashville Parade and contest at 2 p. m. on July 3, Saturday. The Miss Ashville Parade and contest will be held at 7:30 p. m. on the same day.

Judging will be in front of the bleachers in Community Park. Winners of the two contests will be awarded prizes and will appear in the July 5th parade.

SINCE THE Fourth will be a Sunday this year, no rides or concessions will be open during the morning worship hours, until noon. On the afternoon of The Fourth, a Western Horse Show and Rodeo will be held with awards and trophies for the winners. Rides and concessions will operate during the afternoons and evenings of the 3rd, 4th and all day and evening on the 5th.

The afternoon program on the 5th will feature a band concert by bands participating in the parade. All bands of this area are invited to take part in the parade and concert for which there will be a cash award of $25 for the parade and $15 for a fifteen minute concert in the afternoon.

Band leaders who wish to enter their band are asked to communicate with John B. Hardin, Ashville, band chairman.

Another Major Battle Expected In Indochina

HANOI (AP)—A "little Dien Bien Phu" battle was shaping up today in the vital Red River Delta just 30 miles south of this war capital for the French union forces.

The French high command announced thousands of Communist led Vietminh regular troops were besieging the post of Yen Phu, guarding the gateway into the big race marketing and road junction town of Phu Ly.

As at Dien Bien Phu, the rebels after each heavy barrage of fire burrowed steadily closer in feverishly dug trenches. The Vietminh, estimated in a strength of 12 battalions, have kept Yen Phu encircled for two weeks.

Like Dien Bien Phu, it is being supplied solely by air.

Arms For Guatemala May Be Aboard, So Say Yank Envoys

PANAMA (AP)—Tensions increased in jittery Central America today as U. S. customs inspectors at the Atlantic mouth of the Panama Canal ransacked the cargo of a French freighter, presumably for contraband arms.

An agent of the French Line at Cristobal said a search of its 8,693-ton freighter Wyoming began last night "in connection with the business in Guatemala."

He obviously referred to U. S. charges that leftist Guatemala recently received a large arms shipment from behind the Iron Curtain. Guatemala is one of the Wyoming's ports of call.

The agent declared, however, "There are no arms or contraband aboad." He said the ship carried only general cargo.

The Wyoming had been due to clear through tthe canal today en route to El Salvador, Guatemala, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Vancouver, B. C. But officials indicated she would not be ready to leave on schedule.

U S. STATE Department officials said in Washington the ship was being searched to determine whether customs regulations have been violated. The officials stressed that no suspicion had arisen with respect to the French Line itself.

They said both the line and the French government were cooperating in the inspection. This left the question whether the manifest might have been falsified.

The State Department announcement said:

"Before entering the canal, the French Line merchant vessel S. S. Wyoming, which is now at Cristo-

'Lunch Hour' Thug Admits 7 Bank Jobs

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Bernard E. LaClair, 31, the Fort Wayne, Ind., "lunch hour" bandit accused of nine bank robberies involving almost $169,000, pleaded guilty yesterday to holdups in Hamlet and in Bourbon, Ind.

At the same time he signed a waiver in federal court agreeing to face charges of five other bank robberies in four states.

Federal Judge Luther Swygert ordered probation investigations before he sentences LaClair and George M. Miller, 28, who pleaded guilty to an accessory charge.

It was Miller's free spending and speeding around Fort Wayne that led to his own arrest and to LaClair's last March.

The holdup in the Hamlet State Bank June 6, 1953, yielded $7,500, and the First State Bank at Bourbon was robbed of $9,500 July 25.

The holdup cases LaClair agreed to have moved to the court here are: Two robberies of an Old National Bank branch in Evansville, Ind., in 1953, with loot totaling $35,000; New Britain National Bank in Connecticut, $25,000, Jan. 6, 1953; Kenton Savings Bank, Dunkirk, Ohio, $4,063, May 16 1953; Union Trust Co., Springfield, Mass., $62,000, Jan. 26, 1954.

After his arrest, police said LaClair also admitted a $7,037 bank holdup at Ada, Ohio, and an $8,336 robbery at Forest, Ohio.

Old Testimony Being Read In Anti-Red Trial

COLUMBUS (AP)—Reading of testimony of four persons before the Ohio UnAmerican Activities Commission in April 1952 continued today in the trial of the four charged with contempt of the commission.

Charged with not answering commission questions on alleged Communist affiliations are Harry T. McGill of Dayton, Vassel Thamel, formerly of Dayton and now of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Melvin Hupman of Villars Chapel, and his wife, Julia Pearl Hupman.

Their attorney, J. Paul Prear of Dayton, indicated as the trial opened that the four, silent on the Communist question, might not testify in their own defense. He had asked prospective jurors what verdict they might consider if the four "presented no defense whatsoever."

Little light on the background of the four defendants appeared in the reading of the old transcripts.

Answers of Thamel, Mrs. Hupman and McGill during commission questioning usually followed this pattern:

"I refuse to answer under the provisions of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Hupman's testimony during commission questioning was not read yesterday.

Label Of 'Criminal' Hurled In McCarthy's Direction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) publicly suggested today that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and an Army officer who gave him classified information are "guilty of a crime."

"You cannot receive classified information obtained by criminal means without being guilty of a crime," McClellan told the Wisconsin senator in an angry exchange at the televised McCarthy-Army hearings.

McCarthy retorted that if anyone wants to indict him for getting information "exposing Communists let them go ahead."

McCarthy repeated that he would not reveal the name of the Army officer who he said gave him a summary of an FBI report dealing with security risks at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Earlier in the hearings, McCarthy unsuccessfully attempted to offer the summary in evidence. At the time, he represented it as a "letter" from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to the Army.

The subcommittee checked with Hoover and the FBI director said he had not written such a letter, but that the paper did quote from a more extensive FBI document.

Atty. Gen. Brownell ruled the "letter" should not be made public, that to do so would injure the national interest.

The matter came up today when McCarthy said McClellan had been quoted in newspaper stories as saying McCarthy "perhaps might be guilty of a crime."

"I repeat the statement," McClellan retorted.

McClellan added that in his opinion any unauthorized person cannot receive secret reports "without the probability of being guilty of a crime."

McCarthy told McClellan, "you feel that the man who gave me information about treason in the government should be prosecuted."

McClellan said he was not passing "final judgment" on whether a crime had been committed, but had asked Brownell, as the government's chief legal officer, to determine what action should be taken.

McCarthy shot back that he thought that the oath which every public official takes to defend the country against all enemies, foreign and domestic, "towers far above any presidential secrecy directive."

And the Wisconsin Republican said he again wanted to "compliment" those in government who placed the exposure of Communists "above any presidential directive."

He said that any employes who fed him confidential information would "not be brought before any grand jury" because of any information he gave about their identity.

The senators got into the matter through a hassle over another document, produced by Roy M. Cohn. It was described by Cohn, a member of McCarthy's staff, as dealing with Communist infiltration of the Army, and as having been in committee files since March 1953.

McClellan said Democratic members of McCarthy's subcommittee had never seen it, and protested against having to "sit here and meet with surprise after surprise" in the form of documents. He accused Cohn of reluctance to let any member of the subcommittee but McCarthy know about documents in the staff's possession.

McClellan said he had been trying in vain for "weeks" to get from McCarthy a list of the 133 Communists McCarthy has said he has learned are employed in "defense plants" and whom he wants to investigate.

McCarthy replied that he has been too busy

bal, is undergoing inspection by U. S. customs inspectors to determine whether there has been a violation of customs regulations.

"The ship's manifest reflects a miscellaneous cargo comprised principally of machinery. Included are five boxes of sporting arms."

But it is understood no question is being raised about these.

One Washington source said, however, U. S. authorities had received information indicating there might be more than five boxes of "sporting arms" aboard.

Reports reached Washington late last week that two more shipments of Red arms were en route to Guatemala. The Red-tinged Central American nation allegedly had already received a $10 million cargo from the Polish port of Stettin.

Shifting Taxes Reflected Here By Reappraisal

is the correct value to use, why not 40 percent? Or in another year they may say 75 or 100 percent is the figure to use, and try to enforce its opinion on local government!

As a result of this act, the authority of your elected county officials to assess your real property—an authority they have had since Ohio became a state—is now vested in the hands of three political appointees of the executive branch of the state government.

The authority then to assess real property has been taken out of the hands of the people, the taxpayer. It has been taken out of the hands of those who support government and placed in the hands of the government, or the tax spenders!

The reappraisal in Pickaway County in 1949 was made by reliable and responsible real estate owners of the county who were familiar with local property and farms, using two appraisers of opposite politics in each district. They were fair and impartial in their appraisal.

This is the same method employed by the local courts in appraising real estate and personal property for inheritance tax purposes in settling an estate. Appraisal experts were employed to do the industrial property, as has been done in the county for years.

THE COMPLETE cost of this appraisal was $11,061.09, which included $3,800 paid the appraisal engineers for the industrial work. At the start of the appraisal, estimates were received from the expert appraisers to do the entire county, and the lowest estimate was $36,000.

New buildings have been added from time to time to the tax duplicate when reported by the owner or when found by the Board of Revision. No property has been intentionally left off the tax duplicate.

The valuation of Pickaway county property compares favorably with that of surrounding counties of comparative size and population.

The tax value of real estate and public utility property in Pickaway county for 1953 was $67,092,050; Fayette county is $45,708,910; Clinton county is $44,848,720; Delaware county is $52,264,440; Madison county is $42,334,380; Ross county is $73,665,990; and Fairfield county is $85,034,050. Both of the latter two have cities more than three times the population of Circleville.

There is probably no question about the appraisal by the experts being more complete and systematic, and comprising more detail, but is it worth the difference in cost to the taxpayers and the county?

However, with the Hoffman Act still in force, it appears that county officials have no other alternative than to be forced to follow the dictates of the Board of Tax Appeals, or place the amounts received by schools and other branches of local government from the state in jeopardy.

Air Task Group 181, based at the Oceana Naval Air Station near Norfolk, Va. The squadron boarded the Bennington last weekend.

The blast shook the Bennington just after the first of the four squadrons had been launched, a common practice aboard carriers nearing air bases.

"REALIZING a serious catastrophe occurred we launched the rest of the air group to free the decks for casualty control," Raborn said.

The planes, many of them jets, took off for Quonset as surface craft and helicopters were summoned by radio.

Two Navy and four Coast Guard helicopters met the carrier 20 miles from port and exacuated scores of seriously injured to the Newport Naval Hospital. They'd pick up injured on the deck of the carrier, fly to Newport, then return for more. They continued until the carrier docked slightly more than six hours later.

Although tthe exact location of the blast could not be determined immediately, it was in the forward part of the ship near the officers' wardroom.

Capt. Raborn had highest praise for all personnel aboard the carrier, which carries a normal complement of 2,800.

"I am damn proud to be commanding officer of such a heroic, unselfish crew of American seamen," he said.

Count Of Ballots Awaited In Heated Railroad Dispute

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The fate of the mighty New York Central Railroad rested today in four huge safes and nine steel filing cabinets.

Their contents, stock proxies voted for the present management headed by President William White or for the opposition forces headed by financier Robert R. Young, will decide who will run the railroad.

Young's proxies were in the safes and White's in the filing cabinets. After yesterday's rip-roaring annual meeting in the Washington Avenue Armory, attended by 2,000 stockholders, the proxies were taken to the 12th floor of the Hotel Ten Eyck.

There three law professors today began to supervise the laborious process of tabulating, separating the valid from the invalid, and judging challenges.

After 4 hours and 40 minutes of noise and at times disorder and confusion, the stockholders' meeting was recessed yesterday until noon next Tuesday, when the inspectors will report on the vote.

TOWARD THE END of the stockholders' meeting Young told the crowd he had won by a majority of over 700,000.

White said afterward, "Young is usurping the powers of the inspectors of election. I'm just as confident as ever. Young's victory statement is pure bunk."

The fight for the $2.6 billion railroad, second in size only to the Pennsylvania among privately owned railroads, began in February. Then Young demanded that he be made board chairman and that his associate Allen P. Kirby, president of Allegheny Corp., of which Young is board chairman, be made a director. The present board of directors voted him down.

The stockholders' meeting was to elect new directors. The Central's 15-man board was nominated for re-election against Young's candidates.

Disorder halted the meeting temporarily yesterday when Mrs. Wilma Soss, president of the Federation of Women Shareholders in American Business, Inc., questioned the legality of voting before discussion.

She mounted the platform to argue heatedly with White.

But after the hullabaloo was over, nothing more was known about the result than when it started, and that is:

There are 6,417,410 shares of outstanding common stock. Young entered the meeting with a total backing of 1,118,880 shares or 17.4 per cent; White with an estimated 256,122 shares, or almost 4 per cent.

Flasher At 22-104 Intersection Recommendation Of Grand Jury

A recommendation that a flasher light be put at the intersection of Routes 22 and 104 was advanced by the April term of the Pickaway County Grand Jury. The light is of the type similar to the one recently placed at "Dead Man's Crossing" at Leistville.

On May 7, one man was killed and five persons injured in a two-car collision at the 22-104 crossing. The jurors pointed out that "within the past several years there have been numerous deaths" at the intersection.

"Although said intersection is well marked and there appears to be clear visibility, for some unknown reason many persons do not observe the stop sign on 104," the report states. "The people of Pickaway County feel that this (flasher light) has tended to eliminate some of the hazards at this (56 and 159) intersection."

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, agreed in principle with the suggestion. But, he said, he thought it would be better to wait for the results of Memorial Day weekend to provide more accurate data.

"I FEEL that the light at 56 and 159 will undergo a thorough test this weekend," Wallace explained. "Although we haven't had any trouble since it was put in, I want to be absolutely sure." He added that his main contention with "Dead Man's Crossing" at 56 and 159 is that the curve on 56, which approaches the intersection from a general easterly direction, should be eliminated.

The entire matter of markings at 22 and 104 should be surveyed by the director of highways for Ohio, according to the jurors. Although they specifically ask for a flasher light, the 15 members leave the door open for any other improvement the highway department may make.

"The April term of the grand jury," their report continues, "wishes to express their thanks to the director of highways for Ohio (S. O. Linzell) for his interest in carrying out the measures to achieve traffic safety at the intersection of Routes 56 and 159."

No further recommendations were made.

'Criminal' Label In Direction Of McCarthy

me information about treason in the government should be prosecuted."

McClellan said he was not passing "final judgment" on whether a crime had been committed, but had asked Brownell, as the government's chief legal officer, to determine what action should be taken.

McCarthy shot back that he thought that the oath which every public official takes to defend the country against all enemies, foreign and domestic, "towers far above any presidential secrecy directive."

And the Wisconsin Republican said he again wanted to "compliment" those in government who placed the exposure of Communists "above any presidential directive."

He said that any employes who fed him confidential information would "not be brought before any grand jury" because of any information he gave about their identity.

The senators got into the matter through a hassle over another document, produced by Roy M. Cohn. It was described by Cohn, a member of McCarthy's staff, as dealing with Communist infiltration of the Army, and as having been in committee files since March 1953.

McClellan said Democratic members of McCarthy's subcommittee had never seen it, and protested against having to "sit here and meet with surprise after surprise" in the form of documents. He accused Cohn of reluctance to let any member of the subcommittee but McCarthy know about documents in the staff's possession.

McClellan said he had been trying in vain for "weeks" to get from McCarthy a list of the 133 Communists McCarthy has said he has learned are employed in "defense plants" and whom he wants to investigate.

McCarthy replied that he has been too busy

U.S. Customs Aides Inspect French Ship

bal, is undergoing inspection by U. S. customs inspectors to determine whether there has been a violation of customs regulations.

"The ship's manifest reflects a miscellaneous cargo comprised principally of machinery. Included are five boxes of sporting arms."

But it is understood no question is being raised about these.

One Washington source said, however, U. S. authorities had received information indicating there might be more than five boxes of "sporting arms" aboard.

Reports reached Washington late last week that two more shipments of Red arms were en route to Guatemala. The Red-tinged Central American nation allegedly had already received a $10 million cargo from the Polish port of Stettin.

STATE DEPARTMENT officials acknowledged, in view of such reports, U. S. customs authorities were "keeping their eyes open."

Elsewhere along the Central American cold war front:

Reports from Guatemala said a mystery plane swooped over that Caribbean republic last night and scattered pamphlets which called Guatemalans to fight "Communist oppression."

From neighboring Honduras came word that several planes had arrived with arms sent that country under terms of the U. S. defense agreements. The United States is rushing military equipment to Honduras and Nicaragua.

The U. S. Air Force announced in Washington that three of its big intercontinental B36 bombers will make a demonstration flight over Nicaragua today at the request of the Nicaraguans.

Shifting Taxes Reflected Here By Reappraisal

is the correct value to use, why not 40 percent? Or in another year they may say 75 or 100 percent is the figure to use, and try to enforce its opinion on local government!

As a result of this act, the authority of your elected county officials to assess your real property—an authority they have had since Ohio became a state—is now vested in the hands of three political appointees of the executive branch of the state government.

The authority then to assess real property has been taken out of the hands of the people, the taxpayer. It has been taken out of the hands of those who support government and placed in the hands of the government, or the tax spenders!

The reappraisal in Pickaway County in 1949 was made by reliable and responsible real estate owners of the county who were familiar with local property and farms, using two appraisers of opposite politics in each district. They were fair and impartial in their appraisal.

This is the same method employed by the local courts in appraising real estate and personal property for inheritance tax purposes in settling an estate. Appraisal experts were employed to do the industrial property, as has been done in the county for years.

THE COMPLETE cost of this appraisal was $11,061.09, which included $3,800 paid the appraisal engineers for the industrial work. At the start of the appraisal, estimates were received from the expert appraisers to do the entire county, and the lowest estimate was $36,000.

New buildings have been added from time to time to the tax duplicate when reported by the owner or when found by the Board of Revision. No property has been intentionally left off the tax duplicate.

The valuation of Pickaway county property compares favorably with that of surrounding counties of comparative size and population.

The tax value of real estate and public utility property in Pickaway county for 1953 was $67,092,050; Fayette county is $45,708,910; Clinton county is $44,848,720; Delaware county is $52,264,440; Madison county is $42,334,380; Ross county is $73,665,990; and Fairfield county is $85,034,050. Both of the latter two have cities more than three times the population of Circleville.

There is probably no question about the appraisal by the experts being more complete and systematic, and comprising more detail, but is it worth the difference in cost to the taxpayers and the county?

However, with the Hoffman Act still in force, it appears that county officials have no other alternative than to be forced to follow the dictates of the Board of Tax Appeals, or place the amounts received by schools and other branches of local government from the state in jeopardy.

Carrier Fire Fatality Total Is Set At 91

Air Task Group 181, based at the Oceana Naval Air Station near Norfolk, Va. The squadron boarded the Bennington last weekend.

The blast shook the Bennington just after the first of the four squadrons had been launched, a common practice aboard carriers nearing air bases.

"REALIZING a serious catastrophe occurred we launched the rest of the air group to free the decks for casualty control," Raborn said.

The planes, many of them jets, took off for Quonset as surface craft and helicopters were summoned by radio.

Two Navy and four Coast Guard helicopters met the carrier 20 miles from port and exacuated scores of seriously injured to the Newport Naval Hospital. They'd pick up injured on the deck of the carrier, fly to Newport, then return for more. They continued until the carrier docked slightly more than six hours later.

Capt. Raborn had highest praise for all personnel aboard the carrier, which carries a normal complement of 2,800.

"I am dama proud to be commanding officer of such a heroic, unselfish crew of American seamen," he said.

The fight for the $2.6 billion railroad, second in size only to the Pennsylvania among privately owned railroads, began in February. Flasher At 22-104 Intersection Recommendation Of Grand Jury

A recommendation that a flasher light be put at the intersection of Routes 22 and 104 was advanced by the April term of the Pickaway County Grand Jury. The light is of the type similar to the one recently placed at "Dead Man's Crossing" at Leistville.

On May 7, one man was killed and five persons injured in a two-car collision at the 22-104 crossing. The jurors pointed out that "within the past several years there have been numerous deaths" at the intersection.

"Although said intersection is well marked and there appears to be clear visibility, for some unknown reason many persons do not observe the stop sign on 104," the report states. "The people of Pickaway County feel that this (flasher light) has tended to eliminate some of the hazards at this (56 and 159) intersection."

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, agreed in principle with the suggestion. But, he said, he thought it would be better to wait for the results of Memorial Day weekend to provide more accurate data.

"I FEEL that the light at 56 and 159 will undergo a thorough test this weekend," Wallace explained. "Although we haven't had any trouble since it was put in, I want to be absolutely sure." He added that his main contention with "Dead Man's Crossing" at 56 and 159 is that the curve on 56, which approaches the intersection from a general easterly direction, should be eliminated.

The entire matter of markings at 22 and 104 should be surveyed by the director of highways for Ohio, according to the jurors. Although they specifically ask for a flasher light, the 15 members leave the door open for any other improvement the highway department may make.

"The April term of the grand jury," their report continues, "wishes to express their thanks to the director of highways for Ohio (S. O. Linzell) for his interest in carrying out the measures to achieve traffic safety at the intersection of Routes 56 and 159."

No further recommendations were made.

Diversifying Industry Seen Current Trend

Recession Is Beaten By Having Different Sources Of Income

NEW YORK (AP)—Diversify—and beat the rap in the next recession.

Cities and whole regions are trying it today. An increasing number of industrial corporations are trying it.

Varety as the insurance of prosperity is a goal now—even in cities that still relish being called the auto capital or the steel city.

The movement has been under way ever since World War II in some cities and in many big concerns.

But it took this recession to point up the virtues—or the need.

The community with many sources of income often fared better than the one-industry town That's because the postwar pattern has been for first one and then another industry to adjust—that is, slow down and then recover.

The city with its economic eggs in many baskets usually had only one or two factories down at a time—not all of them shut, as in some one-industry towns. It makes a lot of difference.

Corporations had the same experience. Those with many products often fared better than those with just one, when customers proved fickle.

Many cities these days are offering inducements to corporations to open new plants.

Some, notably in the South, have offered tax concessions or have floated bond issues to finance the building of new plants.

More, however, have tried other measures: Surveying for possible industrial sites, rezoning to encourage them, providing transportation for materials and highways for employes' cars, planning the social and physical services needed by new factories, new families.

Diversification is taking many forms—replacing outmoded industries, luring new ones, adjusting to the cold war and the coming atom age.

New England, faced with closing textile mills, has ardently wooed metal-working and electronic firms It is nourishing entirely new industries, many born in test tubes in New England's research laboratories.

Pittsburgh, on the other hand, is proud of its steel and coal industries, but has a great drive on now to diversify. Non-metal-working types of factories are being courted "We can use soft goods industries," they tell you there.

In the South the drive is to turn a once largely agricultural economy into one where industry and farming balance and all the region's resources are used. Textile mills capture the headlines, but the South is welcoming many other types of industry.

Florida, for example, is padding out its tourist and citrus industries with many small manufacturing plants, making everything from clothing to aluminum awnings.

Savings Bonds Up 20 Percent For Last Month

Ohioans invested over $26 million in Series E and H Savings Bonds during April, or 20 percent more than they did in the same month last year, Judge William D. Radcliff, chairman of the Pickaway County Savings Bond Committee, reported Thursday. Residents of Pickaway County invested $35,551 in the bonds in April, compared to $35,100 for the same month last year.

Sixty-four of the state's 88 counties reported gains for the month, Chairman Radcliff said, and total sales amounted to $26,033,669 compared to $21,622,310 purchased in April, 1953.

Nationally E and H Bond sales were up 11 per cent. As of the end of April, Ohio has sold 34.3 percent of its 1954 quota of $343,400,000 in Series E and H Bonds.

Chairman Radcliff said the state should have sold 35.3 percent by April 30. Two of the five areas in the state are ahead of percent of quota attained by the state thus far.

Northeast has 38.7 percent sold and Northwest 38.3 percent. Chairman Radcliff said, of the eight metropolitan counties in Ohio, Summit leads with 44.3 percent of quota achieved and Lucas County is second with 40.5 percent.

Savings Bonds Up 20 Percent For Last Month

Ohioans invested over $26 million in Series E and H Savings Bonds during April, or 20 percent more than they did in the same month last year, Judge William D. Radcliff, chairman of the Pickaway County Savings Bond Committee, reported Thursday. Residents of Pickaway County invested $35,551 in the bonds in April, compared to $35,100 for the same month last year.

Sixty-four of the state's 88 counties reported gains for the month, Chairman Radcliff said, and total sales amounted to $26,033,669 compared to $21,622,310 purchased in April, 1953.

Nationally E and H Bond sales were up 11 per cent. As of the end of April, Ohio has sold 34.3 percent of its 1954 quota of $343,400,000 in Series E and H Bonds.

Chairman Radcliff said the state should have sold 35.3 percent by April 30. Two of the five areas in the state are ahead of percent of quota attained by the state thus far.

Northeast has 38.7 percent sold and Northwest 38.3 percent. Chairman Radcliff said, of the eight metropolitan counties in Ohio, Summit leads with 44.3 percent of quota achieved and Lucas County is second with 40.5 percent.

Business Gets Shakeup From So-Called Dip

Change In Thinking Seen Coming Out Of Current 'Recession'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Fruits of this recession are shaping up today. Mild as it may prove to have been, the business shake-up is leaving a mark, nudging along changes that may affect most poeple in time, sharpening competitive methods, scaring little fellows caught in the middle of the big boys' fights, bringing newcomers into old fields, sending more businesses to the wall.

At the employe level, the business change is emphasizing the job-holding value of skills and the job-getting value of technical education.

At the factory level, it's sharpening the work of the research laboratories and reshuffling sales departments.

At the retail level, a new battle is shaping up over dealer-distribution systems and cut-price stores.

The slide-off from the defense-boom peak has been orderly enough to strengthen the confi- of the nation in its economy and its way of doing business.

Management spokesmen stress that the adjustment is being carried on by industry itself, with a minimum of interfernce from the government. Labor leaders, however, would like to see Washington helping to create jobs for the unemployed and the newcomers to the labor force.

Business failures are more common than a year ago, a sure sign that the slump has sharpened competition, and is weeding out the marginal and inexperienced. It's proving rough for businesses that can prosper only in boom times.

Big companies are scrapping now over markets. Some smaller companies are being squeezed.

The auto industry is an example. The tire industry is another.

The four largest rubber companies outfit almost all cars coming from the factories. Smaller rubber companies specialize in the replacement field. But the big ones whose auto customers aren't producing so much this year, are working hard to capture the replacement market, which looks big this year. Some of the smaller companies find the new competition hurts.

Big companies in the home appliance field this year are crowding into the tempting air conditioning business. Again some smaller ones are being squeezed.

The dealer - distribution battle may highlight the next few months. Manufacturers are trying hard to build up their stables of dealers. Again, the auto and appliance industries are examples. It's in these fields, too, that some of the sharpest gripes against manufacturers' practices and prices have come from dealers.

Manufacturers are trying to hold dealers to "fair trade" practices—that is, stick to factory price lists.

And everywhere recession accents the hassle over the discount houses, as established dealers fight the growth of the stores that sell branded merchandise for less.

The trek of industries towards their markets is hastened now that competition spotlights transportation costs.

In these months of testing the economy, a big goal everywhere is regional self-sufficiency.

"Why should we pay more for goods because they're made elsewhere?" former lightly industrialized sections ask, "Why not make them here?"

The recession is adding urgency to many trends. Business may be moving at a less frenzied pace these days. But the economy certainly isn't standing still.

Columbus Rapped For 'Segregation'

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Rev. Phale D. Hale, president of the Columbus Branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has charged here that Negroes are excluded from all city public housing projects except one.

He urged an immediate end to "segregation." Another NAACP official here said no Negro teachers are employed in the city's high schools.

Divorce Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Actress Irene Hervey has filed for a divorce from singer Allan Jones. The two were wed in 1936. She said she separated from Jones May 18 because of his "mental cruelty."

Youth Drowns

DAYTON (AP)—Carson Dowell, 15, drowned yesterday in the Stillwater River. Coroner Robert Zipf said the youth apparently suffered an epileptic attack while wading.

Business Gets Shakeup From So-Called Dip

Change In Thinking Seen Coming Out Of Current 'Recession'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Fruits of this recession are shaping up today. Mild as it may prove to have been, the business shake-up is leaving a mark, nudging along changes that may affect most poeple in time. sharpening competitive methods, scaring little fellows caught in the middle of the big boys' fights, bringing newcomers into old fields, sending more businesses to the wall.

At the employe level, the business change is emphasizing the job-holding value of skills and the job-getting value of technical education.

At the factory level, it's sharpening the work of the research laboratories and reshuffling sales departments.

At the retail level, a new battle is shaping up over dealer-distribution systems and cut-price stores.

The slide-off from the defense-boom peak has been orderly enough to strengthen the confi- of the nation in its economy and its way of doing business.

Management spokesmen stress that the adjustment is being carried on by industry itself, with a minimum of interfernce from the government. Labor leaders, however, would like to see Washington helping to create jobs for the unemployed and the newcomers to the labor force.

Business failures are more common than a year ago, a sure sign that the slump has sharpened competition, and is weeding out the marginal and inexperienced. It's proving rough for businesses that can prosper only in boom times.

Big companies are scrapping now over markets. Some smaller companies are being squeezed.

The auto industry is an example. The tire industry is another.

The four largest rubber companies outfit almost all cars coming from the factories. Smaller rubber companies specialize in the replacement field. But the big ones whose auto customers aren't producing so much this year, are working hard to capture the replacement market, which looks big this year. Some of the smaller companies find the new competition hurts.

Big companies in the home appliance field this year are crowding into the tempting air conditioning business. Again some smaller ones are being squeezed.

The dealer - distribution battle may highlight the next few months. Manufacturers are trying hard to build up their stables of dealers. Again, the auto and appliance industries are examples. It's in these fields, too, that some of the sharpest gripes against manufacturers' practices and prices have come from dealers.

Manufacturers are trying to hold dealers to "fair trade" practices—that is, stick to factory price lists.

And everywhere recession accents the hassle over the discount houses, as established dealers fight the growth of the stores that sell branded merchandise for less.

The trek of industries towards their markets is hastened now that competition spotlights transportation costs.

In these months of testing the economy, a big goal everywhere is regional self-sufficiency.

"Why should we pay more for goods because they're made elsewhere?" former lightly industrialized sections ask, "Why not make them here?"

The recession is adding urgency to many trends. Business may be moving at a less frenzied pace these days. But the economy certainly isn't standing still.

He urged an immediate end to "segregation." Another NAACP official here said no Negro teachers are employed in the city's high schools.

LABOR'S PARADOX

LABOR ECONOMISTS are admittedly smart. They must be, to survive some of the paradoxes into which their hypothesis leads them.

The sharp-pencil boys for the CIO have acknowledged at last the long-recognized fact that the nation's economic welfare can only be advanced by increased productivity. This is the principle that standard of living is raised by improved production efficiency, or greater output of goods by the expenditure of fewer manhours.

For a long time labor looked askance at such thinking because it implied the hated "speed up," or getting more out of a man for the same pay. When unions have recognized the productivity factor, the tendency has been to hold management responsible for the investment of added capital to bring it about.

To the extent that an improved machine will boost production far out of proportion to the individual worker's relatively feeble efforts, there is no disputing the union argument.

The trouble arises in labor's demand to receive added remuneration for capital's share in the increased output. This has been the sticking point union economists have been unable to justify.

But now the CIO smart boys have found a gimmick. To buy up increased production, they say, takes increased purchasing power and workers—being consumers at heart—are just the ones to get the job done. How? Higher wages, of course.

CONTRAST IN GERMANY

IF FURTHER proof is needed of the contrast between the intentions of the United States and Russia concerning the fate of Germany, it can be found in a recent report on the progress made by that country during the nine years that have elapsed since the end of the war.

The U. S. government has pumped $3.5 billion into West Germany. This vast sum has gone for food, raw materials, fertilizer, machinery, transportation equipment, scientific instruments, oil for power and fuel, and hundreds of other items.

Never before in history has a vanquished nation received from the victor assistance on so lavish a scale. Today West Germany is thriving and is practically self supporting, as a result of American aid and the industry of the German people.

The picture in East Germany is in sharp contrast. Russia has milked that sector of more than $12 billion, and is still bleeding the East Germans to the point of penury. Under pressure from the free nations, Russia shows signs of softening its attitude toward East Germany, but concessions are minor and the contrast remains in its stark reality.

Prosperity in West Germany, slavery in East Germany. Freedom and Communism portrayed side by side.

These Days

On September 6, 1952, the Universal Copyright Convention was signed at Geneva, Switzerland. It has been lying about in the archives of the State Department and the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations since then waiting for ratification, with which the Committee is now proceeding.

A Universal Copyright Convention would be excellent if it were universal and in all respects reciprocal. This particular document is not reciprocal because none of the countries in the Communist world provide for any system of copyright protection for alien works, whether printed or unprinted books, articles, plays, musical compositions or motion pictures. The United States has never had a copyright convention with Russia—in Czarist or Soviet eras—because Russia would not agree to reciprocity.

Article VI of the Universal Copyright Convention contains a trick clause which excludes recordings. It reads:

" 'Publication,' as used in this Convention, means the reproduction in tangible form and the general distribution to the public of copies of a work from which it can be read or otherwise visually perceived.

This is a curious provision that baffles understanding. Why should sheet music come under the provisions of this Convention and not recordings? Sheet music involves visual perception; recordings involve auditory perception. Is the eye to be prejudiced as against the ear? Why the fine distinction?

Precisely what happens when a symphony orchestra plays Shostakovich? If the Russians have arranged a "back door" non-reciprocal transaction, the symphony orchestra must pay royalties, but a recording company, selling thousands of recordings for use in the home or a juke box, does not have to pay a royalty. Why is this? Who arranged for a special advantage of disadvantage, whichever it may be, for the recording companies?

The "back door" arrangement is as follows: The Russians produce a work, but so far as the United States is concerned it is not copyrighted because they do not have reciprocal protection in their country and they have not agreed to the Universal Copyright Convention.

However, they give world-wide rights to a Swiss or a Swede or an Englishman or someone who belongs to a nation within the copyright convention. He copyrights the work in his country, whereupon it immediately becomes part of the universal agreement. He collcts the royalties for his principals behind the Iron Curtain.

Millions of dollars could then find their way from the United States to Soviet Russia, to Poland, Rumania, Red China, etc. This is particularly true in the field of music as Russian music is played often in this country. Why should millions of American dollars be sent to Russia or to any country behind the Iron Curtain? It would also apply to Russian books and motion pictures.

Once this Convention is established, if I quote from Stalin or Lenin or any Russian in an article, the Kremlin could, under this Convention, sue for royalties if they employ the "back door" process. Or they could prevent the publication of what they want to suppress by setting their royalties too high or by having their agents object to quotations. On the other hand, they could print all the American books they desire without paying royalties an dwe would have no claims under any agreement.

Plastic Body Build-Ups

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PLASTIC build-ups for bosoms, and plastic bones for the thigh have joined raincoats, dishes and the million other products now being manufactured synthetically. While plastics have been given large amounts of publicity for their medicinal efforts, their ultimate effects on the body have not as yet been determined.

Physicians and scientists are now studying the effects on animals, in order to determine whether there will be any adverse effects on humans. A recent study of the effect of plastics on rodents showed that embedding it within their bodies helped produce a form of cancer.

Applied to All Types

Different types of plastics were used and each type, in most instances, produced a malignancy or lesion that could ultimately become cancerous. The reason why the plastic produces cancer is not as yet known.

The hopeful feature is that humans do not always act in a manner similar to animals. Many times, a substance that causes cancer in animals in from one to three years will take ten to twenty years to produce it in humans.

Let the Doctor Decide

It is believed that plastic should not be inserted for merely cosmetic reasons, to build up bosoms, for example, but should be used only where it can serve a useful purpose that cannot be accomplished by any other means.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mr. T. D.: I am allergic to milk. Will eating certain other foods give me sufficient amounts of calcium?

Answer: Of course, milk and its products are the best source of calcium. However, enriched bread is an excellent source of calcium, as are certain green leafy vegetables such as kale, broccoli, mustard greens, turnip greens and water cress. Canned salmon is also a good source of calcium.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

THEY were at breakfast, enjoying it in a leisurely way because Todd need not leave until half-past nine today. By now some order had been created out of the chaos of this room. The closet door, behind which a multitude of things lay hidden, was closed tight. Their lamp stood on one tray stand, their electric toaster on the other. Mrs. Foster had loaned Joan a card table, which was serving as a desk. But the cartons, the books and the records were still stacked on the floor.

Joan, thinking of the teas she wanted to plan, spoke suddenly.

"Honestly, Todd, we simply must get some furniture. We can manage without a desk, but I do need a china cabinet and a chest of drawers. And at least one more easy chair." She stopped abruptly and clapped a hand to her forehead as a memory struck her. "What dopes we are! Why don't we go ahead and get them? We have money enough!"

Todd said drily, "Have we, really! Since when?"

"Since our wedding. From all those relatives who didn't know what to give us and sent us checks. Don't you remember? It came to nearly five hundred dollars. What a find! Let's spend it right away, Todd. Let's go out this afternoon when you get home and buy what we want."

"It would be fun," he said slowly, "but—"

"But me no 'buts'!" Joan cried gaily. "Don't you realize that that sum will get us practically everything? Especially if we rummage around in antique shops for stuff in the rough and refinish it ourselves. And that's what I'd like to do."

Todd reached across the little card table and laid his hand on hers. She saw his gray eyes warm with his love. She saw something else in them, too, but she was too excited to recognize it for what it was.

"How can I say 'no' to you when you look at me like that?"

"You can't. Why should you, anyway? It's a gift. We were meant to spend it." She stopped abruptly, tipped her head to one side and regarded him with a little anxious impatience that she tried to conceal beneath lightness. "Do you feel you ought to say 'no,' Mr. Hunter?"

"I do, Mrs. Hunter."

"But why, Mr. Hunter? It's ours. And it was a free gift. No strings attached as to what we should get, I mean."

He shook his head as he took back his hand. He was perfectly serious now.

"Honey, don't you realize we married on a shoestring?"

"Yes, I know, but—"

"A shoestring that has to stretch through September because I won't be getting a pay check until then. I won't get one until I start teaching and have put in my first month."

"I know," she repeated, "but—"

He gestured her to silence and went on, with the inexorability she was beginning to realize it was almost useless to battle against. If he had something to say, he was going to say it and she might as well save her breath until he was through. He said, "I have my tuition paid at Columbia because of my scholarship grant—the one I couldn't use up in Zurich when I was ill. It was extended to me again for use here this year, you remember. So that's taken care of. And I earn enough money for my commutation ticket and my lunches by helping Professor Ziegler correct test papers and by taking over one of his classes for him each week. And we have our rent free here and enough clothes to keep us covered. But there's the little matter of eating. We really have to eat something between now and next fall, you know." And his eyes smiled into hers.

She did not smile back. She sat there, her face downcast, pushing one of their new silver teaspoons back and forth on the little linen mat beneath it. Over the heat in her heart she was thinking coolly and quickly.

"Jo, you understand, don't you?"

"Let me tell you something." She lifted her gaze to his. "It's something I've been keeping for a surprise. I have some money in the bank."

"From your writing, you mean?"

She nodded. "It came in just before we were married and mother wouldn't let me use any of it for my wedding. I begged her, but she wouldn't let me. She thought I might need it more later. Well, this is later. That money would feed us, Todd. It would take care of us until fall. And"— she hastened on, as she saw him begin to shake his head—"I was expecting to use it in some such way. I really was."

"That's sweet of you, honey. It's awfully sweet and generous of you, but I can't let you do that."

"Todd! Oh, Todd, please!" She stopped. After a second she went on in a tight voice. "Please don't be stiff-necked and proud about what I can make from my writing. After all, if your money is ours together, mine is, too, isn't it?"

"I'm not proud and stiff-necked. It isn't that."

"What is it, then?"

"It's that I must know I'm the wage earner. I must feel I can take care of you all the time, through anything. What you have—I don't want to remember about it. I want to forget it."

"I don't see why!"

"Look. Suppose I counted on your help? And then some time something happened that you couldn't deliver? Because you were sick? Or your book was turned down and you had to rewrite it? Or you had a baby and were too busy? Then we'd be up a tree."

He was being quite reasonable. Joan knew there was sense in what he was saying. But his opposition had stirred the first little flare of anger against him she had felt since their marriage. He had extinguished hope too quickly. He had dashed cold water over a dream too readily. Especially when it was a dream that she felt it was quite possible for them to realize.

"Let me get this straight," she said, and her tone now held a slight tremor. "You won't let me spend my own money that I have earned. And you won't let me spend any that was given to me, either. To us both," she corrected herself. "That's the way it is, isn't it?"

He said gently, "I can't, of course, honey, actually tell you what you can do with your own royalty. Neither can I say that you aren't to take any of our wedding money since, strictly speaking, half of it belongs to you. It's just—"

"Just what?"

"That I have a horror of being caught in a jam with nothing in the bank."

"But there'd be something in the bank! There'd be my money! Or else there'd be the wedding checks! I'm not saying spend both. Just one or the other. What jam, anyway? What are you afraid of?" she finished, with her eyes flashing scorn.

He leaned toward her.

"Sickness, Jo-Jo," he said. "And I'm not afraid of it. I mean—not in the sense that I'm anticipating it or borrowing trouble ahead of time. I'm simply remembering. I'm remembering that time in Zurich when sickness caught me short. Well, that could happen again. To me or to you. And it costs a heap of money to be sick."

"You didn't have to pay, though."

"No, I didn't. I was lucky. The Zurich university had insured all its foreign students for a considerable sum. So I was lucky. But I thought I was going to have to pay for quite a while before I found that out. And I was worried. It's an awful worry, Jo-Jo, for a man who's flat on his back to know his expenses are mounting way beyond his pocketbook. Next fall I'm going to take out Blue Cross for us. I can't right now, but next fall I mean to do it. And that's the point. That's what I'm driving at. With cash socked away, if anything happened to us between now and then, we could meet an emergency."

"In other words, you wouldn't mind taking help from me in a pinch."

"No, I wouldn't."

"Only you have to be the one to decide whether it is a pinch."

"Honey!"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has apparently "milked" himself out of a possible appointment as secretary of state or to any other post in the Eisenhower Cabinet. His promotion to Washington would embitter every South American Republic, where Russian Communists are now trying to establish a beachhead on the American continent.

There has been serious talk that Dewey would be given a national spot, if he will run for the Republicans. Both President Eisenhower and National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, a New Yorker, are extremely anxious to repulse an attempted Democratic comeback in this important battleground, especially if an out-and-out New Dealer, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. or Averell Harriman, should be the opposition's standard-bearer.

This agreement is known in national political circles as the Eisenhower-Dewey bargain.

PROSPECTS—For several reasons, there are only two cabinet positions available to a reelected Dewey—namely, secretary of state and attorney general. They are the cabinet assignments for which he is presumably qualified.

Both are now held by New Yorkers, and a third man from this state would create political and geographical unbalance. Either Dulles or Brownell would have to resign to make room for their political daddy.

Dewey, quite obviously, from his world travels and speeches on foreign problems, thinks himself qualified to head the State Department. But that is one job which he can never have, in view of his diplomatic faux pas on milk versus coffee, unless Eisenhower has lost all diplomatic sense and savvy.

INCIDENT — Although eminently sound from a hygienic and economic viewpoint, Dewey recently proposed that the American people should "drink more milk and less coffee," following his personal example as a state executive and farmer—parttime, of course. His suggestion has created what is known in the Dulles Department as an "international incident."

The ambassadors from several coffee-producing South American countries, especially such friendly nations as Brazil and Colombia, immediately registered a formal protest with the State Department. Such an attack by the governor of our greatest state and an Eisenhower crony, they complained, was an indignity.

Not understanding our system of the states' reserved powers, especially in the field of political publicity, they demanded that Secretary Dulles issue an official rebuke to the milkman at Albany.

PROPOSAL—Secretary Dulles could hardly oblige to that diplomatic degree. For one thing, Washington cannot spank a governor. More important, Dewey's proposal accords with the program advocated by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson for increased consumption of dairy products. He hopes thereby to get rid of his $6½ billion accumulation of farm surpluses. And Benson doesn't like coffee, either.

State did, however, contact Dewey, informing him of the South American protests, and suggesting that he issue a clarifying statement. With Communist arms reaching Guatemala, and with growing signs of a "hate America" spirit, extending from the Rio Grande River to Magellan Straits, Dewey was told that this is no time to rock the continental ship of state.

However, a few days later, Dewey again called for a crusade of milk versus coffee drinking. His nondiplomatic appeal to upstate farmers (and New York ranks near the top as an agricultural area) furnishes additional evidence that he plans to run again on an Eisenhower-Hall ticket.

But it appears now that he has disqualified himself for a cabinet job. In which case, he may decline to run for governor. He is expected to announce his plans within a few weeks.

Back from a three-day business trip, a husband admitted to his wife that he was utterly bushed. "Not only was I rushing around fourteen hours a day," he complained, "but I had to sleep in a saloon." "A saloon!" gasped his wife. "Do you mean to say that in that whole city you couldn't find a decent room?" "There were rooms enough," confessed the husband, "but none with bars in them."

Old codger in a sleepy New England village had lived in the same ramshackle cottage since the day of his birth many years ago. Suddenly he startled his cronies by gathering his few belongings and moving into the house next door. "What's the big idea?" everybody asked him. He scratched his head and admitted, "Durned if I know myself. Must be the gypsy in me!"

LABOR'S PARADOX

LABOR ECONOMISTS are admittedly smart. They must be, to survive some of the paradoxes into which their hypothesis leads them.

The sharp-pencil boys for the CIO have acknowledged at last the long-recognized fact that the nation's economic welfare can only be advanced by increased productivity. This is the principle that standard of living is raised by improved production efficiency, or greater output of goods by the expenditure of fewer manhours.

For a long time labor looked askance at such thinking because it implied the hated "speed up," or getting more out of a man for the same pay. When unions have recognized the productivity factor, the tendency has been to hold management responsible for the investment of added capital to bring it about.

To the extent that an improved machine will boost production far out of proportion to the individual worker's relatively feeble efforts, there is no disputing the union argument.

The trouble arises in labor's demand to receive added remuneration for capital's share in the increased output. This has been the sticking point union economists have been unable to justify.

But now the CIO smart boys have found a gimmick. To buy up increased production, they say, takes increased purchasing power and workers—being consumers at heart—are just the ones to get the job done. How? Higher wages, of course.

CONTRAST IN GERMANY

IF FURTHER proof is needed of the contrast between the intentions of the United States and Russia concerning the fate of Germany, it can be found in a recent report on the progress made by that country during the nine years that have elapsed since the end of the war.

The U. S. government has pumped $3.5 billion into West Germany. This vast sum has gone for food, raw materials, fertilizer, machinery, transportation equipment, scientific instruments, oil for power and fuel, and hundreds of other items.

Never before in history has a vanquished nation received from the victor assistance on so lavish a scale. Today West Germany is thriving and is practically self supporting, as a result of American aid and the industry of the German people.

The picture in East Germany is in sharp contrast. Russia has milked that sector of more than $12 billion, and is still bleeding the East Germans to the point of penury. Under pressure from the free nations, Russia shows signs of softening its attitude toward East Germany, but concessions are minor and the contrast remains in its stark reality.

Prosperity in West Germany, slavery in East Germany. Freedom and Communism portrayed side by side.

These Days

On September 6, 1952, the Universal Copyright Convention was signed at Geneva, Switzerland. It has been lying about in the archives of the State Department and the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations since then waiting for ratification, with which the Committee is now proceeding.

A Universal Copyright Convention would be excellent if it were universal and in all respects reciprocal. This particular document is not reciprocal because none of the countries in the Communist world provide for any system of copyright protection for alien works, whether printed or unprinted books, articles, plays, musical compositions or motion pictures. The United States has never had a copyright convention with Russia—in Czarist or Soviet eras—because Russia would not agree to reciprocity.

Article VI of the Universal Copyright Convention contains a trick clause which excludes recordings. It reads:

" 'Publication,' as used in this Convention, means the reproduction in tangible form and the general distribution to the public of copies of a work from which it can be read or otherwise visually perceived.

This is a curious provision that baffles understanding. Why should sheet music come under the provisions of this Convention and not recordings? Sheet music involves visual perception; recordings involve auditory perception. Is the eye to be prejudiced as against the ear? Why the fine distinction?

Precisely what happens when a symphony orchestra plays Shostakovich? If the Russians have arranged a "back door" non-reciprocal transaction, the symphony orchestra must pay royalties, but a recording company, selling thousands of recordings for use in the home or a juke box, does not have to pay a royalty. Why is this? Who arranged for a special advantage of disadvantage, whichever it may be, for the recording companies?

The "back door" arrangement is as follows: The Russians produce a work, but so far as the United States is concerned it is not copyrighted because they do not have reciprocal protection in their country and they have not agreed to the Universal Copyright Convention.

However, they give world-wide rights to a Swiss or a Swede or an Englishman or someone who belongs to a nation within the copyright convention. He copyrights the work in his country, whereupon it immediately becomes part of the universal agreement. He collcts the royalties for his principals behind the Iron Curtain.

Millions of dollars could then find their way from the United States to Soviet Russia, to Poland, Rumania, Red China, etc. This is particularly true in the field of music as Russian music is played often in this country. Why should millions of American dollars be sent to Russia or to any country behind the Iron Curtain? It would also apply to Russian books and motion pictures.

Once this Convention is established, if I quote from Stalin or Lenin or any Russian in an article, the Kremlin could, under this Convention, sue for royalties if they employ the "back door" process. Or they could prevent the publication of what they want to suppress by setting their royalties too high or by having their agents object to quotations. On the other hand, they could print all the American books they desire without paying royalties an dwe would have no claims under any agreement.

Plastic Body Build-Ups

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PLASTIC build-ups for bosoms, and plastic bones for the thigh have joined raincoats, dishes and the million other products now being manufactured synthetically. While plastics have been given large amounts of publicity for their medicinal efforts, their ultimate effects on the body have not as yet been determined.

Physicians and scientists are now studying the effects on animals, in order to determine whether there will be any adverse effects on humans. A recent study of the effect of plastics on rodents showed that embedding it within their bodies helped produce a form of cancer.

Applied to All Types

Different types of plastics were used and each type, in most instances, produced a malignancy or lesion that could ultimately become cancerous. The reason why the plastic produces cancer is not as yet known.

The hopeful feature is that humans do not always act in a manner similar to animals. Many times, a substance that causes cancer in animals in from one to three years will take ten to twenty years to produce it in humans.

Let the Doctor Decide

It is believed that plastic should not be inserted for merely cosmetic reasons, to build up bosoms, for example, but should be used only where it can serve a useful purpose that cannot be accomplished by any other means.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mr. T. D.: I am allergic to milk. Will eating certain other foods give me sufficient amounts of calcium?

Answer: Of course, milk and its products are the best source of calcium. However, enriched bread is an excellent source of calcium, as are certain green leafy vegetables such as kale, broccoli, mustard greens, turnip greens and water cress. Canned salmon is also a good source of calcium.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

THEY were at breakfast, enjoying it in a leisurely way because Todd need not leave until half-past nine today. By now some order had been created out of the chaos of this room. The closet door, behind which a multitude of things lay hidden, was closed tight. Their lamp stood on one tray stand, their electric toaster on the other. Mrs. Foster had loaned Joan a card table, which was serving as a desk. But the cartons, the books and the records were still stacked on the floor.

Joan, thinking of the teas she wanted to plan, spoke suddenly.

"Honestly, Todd, we simply must get some furniture. We can manage without a desk, but I do need a china cabinet and a chest of drawers. And at least one more easy chair." She stopped abruptly and clapped a hand to her forehead as a memory struck her. "What dopes we are! Why don't we go ahead and get them? We have money enough!"

Todd said drily, "Have we, really! Since when?"

"Since our wedding. From all those relatives who didn't know what to give us and sent us checks. Don't you remember? It came to nearly five hundred dollars. What a find! Let's spend it right away, Todd. Let's go out this afternoon when you get home and buy what we want."

"It would be fun," he said slowly, "but—"

"But me no 'buts'!" Joan cried gaily. "Don't you realize that that sum will get us practically everything? Especially if we rummage around in antique shops for stuff in the rough and refinish it ourselves. And that's what I'd like to do."

Todd reached across the little card table and laid his hand on hers. She saw his gray eyes warm with his love. She saw something else in them, too, but she was too excited to recognize it for what it was.

"How can I say 'no' to you when you look at me like that?"

"You can't. Why should you, anyway? It's a gift. We were meant to spend it." She stopped abruptly, tipped her head to one side and regarded him with a little anxious impatience that she tried to conceal beneath lightness. "Do you feel you ought to say 'no,' Mr. Hunter?"

"I do, Mrs. Hunter."

"But why, Mr. Hunter? It's ours. And it was a free gift. No strings attached as to what we should get, I mean."

He shook his head as he took back his hand. He was perfectly serious now.

"Honey, don't you realize we married on a shoestring?"

"Yes, I know, but—"

"A shoestring that has to stretch through September because I won't be getting a pay check until then. I won't get one until I start teaching and have put in my first month."

"I know," she repeated, "but—"

He gestured her to silence and went on, with the inexorability she was beginning to realize it was almost useless to battle against. If he had something to say, he was going to say it and she might as well save her breath until he was through. He said, "I have my tuition paid at Columbia because of my scholarship grant—the one I couldn't use up in Zurich when I was ill. It was extended to me again for use here this year, you remember. So that's taken care of. And I earn enough money for my commutation ticket and my lunches by helping Professor Ziegler correct test papers and by taking over one of his classes for him each week. And we have our rent free here and enough clothes to keep us covered. But there's the little matter of eating. We really have to eat something between now and next fall, you know." And his eyes smiled into hers.

She did not smile back. She sat there, her face downcast, pushing one of their new silver teaspoons back and forth on the little linen mat beneath it. Over the heat in her heart she was thinking coolly and quickly.

"Jo, you understand, don't you?"

"Let me tell you something." She lifted her gaze to his. "It's something I've been keeping for a surprise. I have some money in the bank."

"From your writing, you mean?"

She nodded. "It came in just before we were married and mother wouldn't let me use any of it for my wedding. I begged her, but she wouldn't let me. She thought I might need it more later. Well, this is later. That money would feed us, Todd. It would take care of us until fall. And"— she hastened on, as she saw him begin to shake his head—"I was expecting to use it in some such way. I really was."

"That's sweet of you, honey. It's awfully sweet and generous of you, but I can't let you do that."

"Todd! Oh, Todd, please!" She stopped. After a second she went on in a tight voice. "Please don't be stiff-necked and proud about what I can make from my writing. After all, if your money is ours together, mine is, too, isn't it?"

"I'm not proud and stiff-necked. It isn't that."

"What is it, then?"

"It's that I must know I'm the wage earner. I must feel I can take care of you all the time, through anything. What you have—I don't want to remember about it. I want to forget it."

"I don't see why!"

"Look. Suppose I counted on your help? And then some time something happened that you couldn't deliver? Because you were sick? Or your book was turned down and you had to rewrite it? Or you had a baby and were too busy? Then we'd be up a tree."

He was being quite reasonable. Joan knew there was sense in what he was saying. But his opposition had stirred the first little flare of anger against him she had felt since their marriage. He had extinguished hope too quickly. He had dashed cold water over a dream too readily. Especially when it was a dream that she felt it was quite possible for them to realize.

"Let me get this straight," she said, and her tone now held a slight tremor. "You won't let me spend my own money that I have earned. And you won't let me spend any that was given to me, either. To us both," she corrected herself. "That's the way it is, isn't it?"

He said gently, "I can't, of course, honey, actually tell you what you can do with your own royalty. Neither can I say that you aren't to take any of our wedding money since, strictly speaking, half of it belongs to you. It's just—"

"Just what?"

"That I have a horror of being caught in a jam with nothing in the bank."

"But there'd be something in the bank! There'd be my money! Or else there'd be the wedding checks! I'm not saying spend both. Just one or the other. What jam, anyway? What are you afraid of?" she finished, with her eyes flashing scorn.

He leaned toward her.

"Sickness, Jo-Jo," he said. "And I'm not afraid of it. I mean—not in the sense that I'm anticipating it or borrowing trouble ahead of time. I'm simply remembering. I'm remembering that time in Zurich when sickness caught me short. Well, that could happen again. To me or to you. And it costs a heap of money to be sick."

"You didn't have to pay, though."

"No, I didn't. I was lucky. The Zurich university had insured all its foreign students for a considerable sum. So I was lucky. But I thought I was going to have to pay for quite a while before I found that out. And I was worried. It's an awful worry, Jo-Jo, for a man who's flat on his back to know his expenses are mounting way beyond his pocketbook. Next fall I'm going to take out Blue Cross for us. I can't right now, but next fall I mean to do it. And that's the point. That's what I'm driving at. With cash socked away, if anything happened to us between now and then, we could meet an emergency."

"In other words, you wouldn't mind taking help from me in a pinch."

"No, I wouldn't."

"Only you have to be the one to decide whether it is a pinch."

"Honey!"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has apparently "milked" himself out of a possible appointment as secretary of state or to any other post in the Eisenhower Cabinet. His promotion to Washington would embitter every South American Republic, where Russian Communists are now trying to establish a beachhead on the American continent.

There has been serious talk that Dewey would be given a national spot, if he will run for the Republicans. Both President Eisenhower and National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, a New Yorker, are extremely anxious to repulse an attempted Democratic comeback in this important battleground, especially if an out-and-out New Dealer, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. or Averell Harriman, should be the opposition's standard-bearer.

This agreement is known in national political circles as the Eisenhower-Dewey bargain.

PROSPECTS—For several reasons, there are only two cabinet positions available to a reelected Dewey—namely, secretary of state and attorney general. They are the cabinet assignments for which he is presumably qualified.

Both are now held by New Yorkers, and a third man from this state would create political and geographical unbalance. Either Dulles or Brownell would have to resign to make room for their political daddy.

Dewey, quite obviously, from his world travels and speeches on foreign problems, thinks himself qualified to head the State Department. But that is one job which he can never have, in view of his diplomatic faux pas on milk versus coffee, unless Eisenhower has lost all diplomatic sense and savvy.

INCIDENT — Although eminently sound from a hygienic and economic viewpoint, Dewey recently proposed that the American people should "drink more milk and less coffee," following his personal example as a state executive and farmer—parttime, of course. His suggestion has created what is known in the Dulles Department as an "international incident."

The ambassadors from several coffee-producing South American countries, especially such friendly nations as Brazil and Colombia, immediately registered a formal protest with the State Department. Such an attack by the governor of our greatest state and an Eisenhower crony, they complained, was an indignity.

Not understanding our system of the states' reserved powers, especially in the field of political publicity, they demanded that Secretary Dulles issue an official rebuke to the milkman at Albany.

PROPOSAL—Secretary Dulles could hardly oblige to that diplomatic degree. For one thing, Washington cannot spank a governor. More important, Dewey's proposal accords with the program advocated by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson for increased consumption of dairy products. He hopes thereby to get rid of his $6½ billion accumulation of farm surpluses. And Benson doesn't like coffee, either.

State did, however, contact Dewey, informing him of the South American protests, and suggesting that he issue a clarifying statement. With Communist arms reaching Guatemala, and with growing signs of a "hate America" spirit, extending from the Rio Grande River to Magellan Straits, Dewey was told that this is no time to rock the continental ship of state.

However, a few days later, Dewey again called for a crusade of milk versus coffee drinking. His nondiplomatic appeal to upstate farmers (and New York ranks near the top as an agricultural area) furnishes additional evidence that he plans to run again on an Eisenhower-Hall ticket.

But it appears now that he has disqualified himself for a cabinet job. In which case, he may decline to run for governor. He is expected to announce his plans within a few weeks.

High Schoolers Who Work Will Need SS Card

C. C. Darby, manager of the Columbus Social Security Office, reminded high school students Thursday that they'll need a Social Security account card if they plan to take a job this Summer.

Employers will ask to see the card, he explained, because it is necessary for them to copy the name and account number into the firm's records. The information is also needed for the quarterly Social Security report that an employer is required to make on employe earnings.

"Be sure and take your card with you when you go out to get a job this Summer," Darby said. "If you have lost your card, you should get a duplicate from the Social Security Administration before starting on your Summer-time work.

"And if you have never had a card, you should get one before you start work—providing, of course, it's a job covered by the Social Security law."

DARBY SAID the necessary application blanks can be obtained at the Circleville Post Office. And the completed forms should be mailed to the Social Security Office in Columbus. The offices in Columbus are in the Old Post Office Building.

Darby said most jobs are covered by the Social Security law. However, for those students who do not plan to take a "vacation job" this Summer, he suggested that they defer asking for a card until they have need for one.

Widow's Clothes Flame In Church

CLEVELAND (AP)—Nuns, praying in the nave of St. Paul's Shrine, yesterday grabbed a 65-year-old widow whose clothing was afire and smothered the flames.

The widow, Mrs. Helen Knight, was in fair condition last night with chest burns. She was lighting candles in the church when her clothing caught fire.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Turkeys, hams and watermelons are being featured in many of the nation's food stores this week as thrifty buys for the Memorial Day weekend.

The watermelons should appeal to holiday picnic fans; they are plentiful, of excellent quality and relatively cheap. For stay-at-homes with backyard barbecues, sirloin and porterhouse steaks are available at prices ranging from about 2 cents a pound higher to 8 cents lower than last week, depending on where you live.

Best buys in turkey are in the small (under 8 pounds) and large, over 18 pounds, varieties. Elsewhere in the poultry department, fryers can be had at prices just about the same as a week ago. Duck is in abundant supply in wide areas of the country; the Department of Agriculture has singled out roast duckling as one of its "food headliners" of the week.

Lobster and shrimp are being promoted at reduced prices in some cities. Other featured items are skinless franks, corn on the cob and ripe tomatoes. Pork prices are moving up again.

Eggs are still in more than abundant supply, with prices mostly unchanged from last week's levels. Most vegetables are priced lower than a week ago; outstanding buys include cabbage, spinach and potatoes, followed closely by romaine lettuce, string beans, radishes, asparagus and squash.

Strawberries are probably the outstanding buy this week in the fresh fruits department. The first peaches and blueberries from southern growing centers are finding their way into big city markets, but prices will continue high until the season is more advanced. Limes and grapefruit are plentiful and attractively priced. Also available—but at out-of-season prices—are cherries and seedless grapes from California and plums from Texas.

Good news this week for coffee drinkers: Prices, says the Department of Agriculture, may ease off later in the year and are almost certain to go down in 1955. That's because coffee - frowing countries outside Brazil are increasing their production. But it won't be until later next year that the frost-damaged Brazilian crop shows signs of real improvement.

High Schoolers Who Work Will Need SS Card

C. C. Darby, manager of the Columbus Social Security Office, reminded high school students Thursday that they'll need a Social Security account card if they plan to take a job this Summer.

Employers will ask to see the card, he explained, because it is necessary for them to copy the name and account number into the firm's records. The information is also needed for the quarterly Social Security report that an employer is required to make on employe earnings.

"Be sure and take your card with you when you go out to get a job this Summer," Darby said. "If you have lost your card, you should get a duplicate from the Social Security Administration before starting on your Summer-time work.

"And if you have never had a card, you should get one before you start work—providing, of course, it's a job covered by the Social Security law."

DARBY SAID the necessary application blanks can be obtained at the Circleville Post Office. And the completed forms should be mailed to the Social Security Office in Columbus. The offices in Columbus are in the Old Post Office Building.

Darby said most jobs are covered by the Social Security law. However, for those students who do not plan to take a "vacation job" this Summer, he suggested that they defer asking for a card until they have need for one.

Widow's Clothes Flame In Church

CLEVELAND (AP)—Nuns, praying in the nave of St. Paul's Shrine, yesterday grabbed a 65-year-old widow whose clothing was afire and smothered the flames.

The widow, Mrs. Helen Knight, was in fair condition last night with chest burns. She was lighting candles in the church when her clothing caught fire.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Turkeys, hams and watermelons are being featured in many of the nation's food stores this week as thrifty buys for the Memorial Day weekend.

The watermelons should appeal to holiday picnic fans; they are plentiful, of excellent quality and relatively cheap. For stay-at-homes with backyard barbecues, sirloin and porterhouse steaks are available at prices ranging from about 2 cents a pound higher to 8 cents lower than last week, depending on where you live.

Best buys in turkey are in the small (under 8 pounds) and large, over 18 pounds, varieties. Elsewhere in the poultry department, fryers can be had at prices just about the same as a week ago. Duck is in abundant supply in wide areas of the country; the Department of Agriculture has singled out roast duckling as one of its "food headliners" of the week.

Lobster and shrimp are being promoted at reduced prices in some cities. Other featured items are skinless franks, corn on the cob and ripe tomatoes. Pork prices are moving up again.

Eggs are still in more than abundant supply, with prices mostly unchanged from last week's levels. Most vegetables are priced lower than a week ago; outstanding buys include cabbage, spinach and potatoes, followed closely by romaine lettuce, string beans, radishes, asparagus and squash.

Strawberries are probably the outstanding buy this week in the fresh fruits department. The first peaches and blueberries from southern growing centers are finding their way into big city markets, but prices will continue high until the season is more advanced. Limes and grapefruit are plentiful and attractively priced. Also available—but at out-of-season prices—are cherries and seedless grapes from California and plums from Texas.

Good news this week for coffee drinkers: Prices, says the Department of Agriculture, may ease off later in the year and are almost certain to go down in 1955. That's because coffee - frowing countries outside Brazil are increasing their production. But it won't be until later next year that the frost-damaged Brazilian crop shows signs of real improvement.

Average Weekly Food Bill: $21.56

CLEVELAND (AP) — A typical housewife spends $21.56 weekly for food, a survey presented at the Super Market Institute shows.

The survey of 1,000 women, announced at the institute's 17th annual convention, also showed they complain mostly about slowness at checkout stands and narrow aisles in stores.

MEMORIAL DAY, 1954, FINDS OVER 82,000 U. S. WAR DEAD AT REST AT ARLINGTON

By JERRY KLEIN
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — On Memorial Day the eyes of the nation will turn toward Arlington National Cemetery where so many American soldiers rest "in honored glory." For 90 years burial at Arlington has been the unquestioned right of every soldier who served his country honorably. However, very few of the millions of United States veterans now alive will have that privilege.

As of last April, there were 82,274 graves in Arlington, and about eight new interments are being made every day. The Quartermaster General Corps, which tends the Cemetery, predicts that by 1969 all space will have been filled and Arlington must close its gates to American veterans.

Often called the most sacred soil in the United States, Arlington formerly was the property of the Washington and Lee families, and consists of 420 acres of rolling green. However, its future as a national cemetery is limited because thickly populated suburbs which adjoin prevent any further expansion. Congress will have the task of designating some new area as the official resting place of honor for the nation's servicemen.

ARLINGTON, oddly enough, originally became the National Cemetery by accident. Part of 6,000 acres deeded in 1669 to a sea captain, it was promptly exchanged for six hogs-heads of tobacco. Repeated transfers eventually brought it into the hands of Martha Washington by her first husband, and then to George Washington Parke Custis.

In 1831 Mary Ann Randolph Custis was married at Arlington plantation to a young Army lieutenant named Robert E. Lee. When the Civil war erupted 30 years later, the Lees fled to the Confederate capital at Richmond and Union forces swarmed over Arlington.

Soon the hospitals of Washington became crowded with wounded. Arlington, just across the Potomac from the capital, provided a convenient burial ground for both Union and Confederate dead. From Bull Run and the shores of the little Rappahanock river, alone, came the bodies of 2,111 unknown dead.

MORE THAN 500 Confederate soldiers were buried around a monument erected by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

In later years, Arlington National Cemetery received the remains of 229 men killed on the sunken battleship, Maine. The mast of the ill-fated vessel still stands guard over the graves of the Spanish-American war veterans.

The Maine Monument in Arlington National Cemetery commemorates the Spanish-American war and its heroic dead.

On Armistice Day of 1921 the Unknown Soldier of World War I was enshrined in his catafalque of Colorado marble. Night and day volunteer guards of honor have paced beside his tomb ever since.

As of April 1, 732 victims of the war in Korea had been buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

THE GOVERNMENT has precise rules limiting burial at Arlington to veterans and certain members of their families. However, more than 600 persons interred in the cemetery did not qualify under the law and had to receive special congressional approval.

For example, there are the graves of slaves who worked on the old Arlington plantation. There also are the graves of 42 men who were not Americans, but Allied soldiers who died in this country during World War II. The Polish statesman and pianist, Ignace Paderewski, died in the United States after his homeland fell to the Red and Nazi armies and he, too, was buried at Arlington.

SINCE AMERICA recognizes that some of its most loyal and valued servants do not wear uniforms, Arlington also shelters the remains of such men as President William Howard Taft and Defense Secretary James Forrestal.

Perhaps the most controversial burial was that of Britain's World War II military chief in the United States, Field Marshal Sir John Dill.

Many congressmen objected to his interment, but permission finally was granted at the request of the then United States Chief-of-Staff Gen. George C. Marshall. Incidentally, Sir John's grave is marked by the only equestrian statue in the cemetery. Even Gen. John J. Pershing lies, by his own wish, beneath a completely simple block.

Strangely enough, although Arlington was once the home of Gen. Robert E. Lee, the great confederate leader is not buried there. Lee was declared ineligible for burial in Arlington because he led the rebel forces in the Civil war.

Ike, Mamie Plan Trips To Farm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weekend trips to their new farm home near Gettysburg, Pa., will be on the fall schedule of President and Mrs. Eisenhower, the First Lady says.

The home is being almost completely rebuilt on the 189-acre farm they purchased after World War II.

Mrs. Eisenhower told women reporters yesterday she is looking forward to the close of the White House social season this month so she can concentrate on decorating the house.

She will be the chief decorator, she implied, and the President is giving her a free hand.

Now, any writer favors copyrights and there is no reason why Kachaturian should not receive royalties for his "Sabre Dance," which was such an enormous success and appeared on The Hit Parade. But as long as his country provides no reciprocal arrangement to protect Cole Porter or Irving Berlin or Aaron Copland, then we ought not to send millions of dollars to Russia to protect their writers, composers, motion pictures, and everything except recordings. Apparently, the record companies have some kind of an inside on this deal.

The basic principle of copyrighting or patenting in the international field must be reciprocity. This has always been the abiding principle. If any country chooses to remain outside the copyright or patent convention, using "back door" methods to protect her own people but never reciprocally protecting others, then the transaction is unfair and wrong and should not be permitted. And the Senate ought not to ratify such an agreement.

This is another little transaction in which the Russians are, as usual, playing a few little tricks and they find Americans to help them who are without understanding of the problem.

The Battle For Asia

Colonialism Still A 'Devil' To Big, Mysterious India

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

GENEVA (AP) — "The Devil I know," said an Indian leader, "is worse than the Devil I don't know."

He was trying to explain why anti-American sentiment is rising in India, why Indians profess not to fear any threat of communism from abroad.

"America is capitalist," he said. "Indians relate capitalism to imperialism, and imperialism to colonialism. Colonialism is the Devil we know."

This came from an Indian leader who is pro-American, and thus is testimony to the strength of Moscow-Peiping propaganda in Asia. Communist efforts have been concentrated upon identifying the United States with colonialism and imperialism.

The Communist party in India professes to give all-out support to the foreign policy of Prime Minister Nehru and his Congress party, itself carrying on a grim struggle with the domestic Communists.

The Red objective seems to be to drive Nehru into toeing the Communist Chinese line. Nehru does not appear willing to be lured all the way, but apparently he is becoming openly more and more anti-American. He declined an interview, but his supporters say he has these reasons:

1. U.S. military aid to Pakistan. Nothing has so stirred anti-American sentiment. One Indian leader told me this amounted to arming "India's enemy," since there has been no solution to the Indian-Pakistani dispute over Kashmir state.

2. Suggestions in Washington that the war in Indochina might be internatonalzed. Indian leaders picture the Indochina war as purely one against colonialism. Some of them were so much in the dark about it they had to be briefed by the British before the Colombo conference last month.

3. Attempts to bring about a Southeast Asia alliance. Indian leaders say this is an invitation for Asia to provide the arena for World War III.

4. Statements by Americans about the use of atomic weapons and the prospect of "massive retaliation." Indian leaders portray such statements as heralding a futile attempt to blast communism out of existence rather than trying to outflank communism with better ideas and ideals.

5. Failure to appreciate India's special position. This is the crux of the matter. Indian leaders apparently consider themselves misused by American misunderstanding, consider that they are required to walk an international tightrope because of their geographical position.

Nehru has been facing rising criticism throughout India — particularly in west Bengal and Communist-infested Calcutta—in sharp contrast to his almost unassailable position of a few years ago. There has been talk about his Congress party is getting soft and tired, that it must produce definite economic results by the next elections in 1957 or prepare to get out of power. Now, apparently, the Congress party is attempting to step up its efforts in that direction.

In foreign policy the Congress party's worries bring about a sort of solemn masquerade, such as the "National Convention Against United States Military Aid to Pakistan," which I attended in New Delhi.

The convention was unofficial, but obviously had Congress blessing. Speakers criticized the United States in a tired sort of way, as if required to do so. It looked almost as if such things might be staged primarily to steal Communist thunder on such issues. But, in attempting to pull the rug from under the Communist drives, the Indian politicians themselves gave impetus to anti-American sentiment.

Everything the United States does or offers to do in India is subject to suspicious scrutiny. The United States receives a generally bad press. Anti-Americanism is fanned by professional Communists and opportunists who twist Nehru's statements on international affairs to suit their own purposes.

To retain its dominant position, the Congress party wants to appear completely independent of the United States and the taint, advertised by the Communists, of "imperialism." Thus Nehru's biggest problem seems to be an attempt to satisfy all shades of opinion, including those within his own party.

For some time to come world communism likely will be satisfied with a neutral India. There is much to digest meanwhile. But the Communists in India are far from idle. They have infiltrated deeply into the Indian press. They have kept up unceasing efforts to dominate India's students, source of tomorrow's leadership. They are active in the trade union movement.

Communism's ultimate aim is a coalition of all opposition parties against the Congress party: Already in some areas the Congress party owes its dominance only to the fact that the opposition has been split. Should the coalition succeed, the Communists then could operate in the usual pattern — lopping off their temporary allies one by one.

Friendly Postman Named By Will

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Postman John McKalvey always had time to stop for a friendly chat with Mrs. Lydia Wood Baily, an 80-year-old widow whose mansion was located on his route.

His friendly smile meant a lot to the lonely old lady from the time he started delivering mail to the $175,000, 15-room home in suburban Wayne eight years ago.

McKalvey brought his wife to meet, sit and chat with and read to Mrs. Baily. In 1952, they moved in temporarily with her to care for her after she suffered a heart attack.

She died earlier this month. When her will was probated, it left the home to the McKalveys.

Cincy Sailor Unaware Of Blast

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Cincinnati man aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington slept right through the explosion.

Thomas J. Lorenz, 23, told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Lorenz, by telephone that he was "missing" when his squadron held muster after the explosion. But he wasn't a casualty. He was asleep.

The parents said their son told them he worked late last night in the explosion area and then had permission to sleep late.

"I didn't wake up when the explosion came," he said, "because I sleep as far away from that area as it's possible to get."

He was awakened by shipmates and joined in the rescue work.

Husband-Slayer Gets $25 Refund

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Sylvester Shaw will be given $25 by the law, even though she is charged with the slaying of her husband.

She had posted a $25 bond to insure her husband's appearance in court in connection with an auto collision. That was April 19.

Three days earlier, April 16, her husband died of a stab wound, and a Traffic Court referee yesterday ruled:

"Under the law the case against Shaw was dismissed automatically. Mrs. Shaw is entitled to the return of her $25 even though she is in jail, charged with his murder."

Lass Gets School Work By Phone

CHICAGO (AP) — Nancy Olson, 13, bed-ridden with rheumatic fever, will resume her seventh grade classes today by telephone.

The experimental program is being tried for the first time in the Chicago public schools. A special line was installed to enable Nancy to hear classroom discussions and talk with her teacher through a small speaker-microphone atop a bedside table in her home. A similar instrument will be located in her classroom in the Ruggles school.

Judge Disturbed By Hammering

DENVER (AP)— Dist. Judge William A. Black halted a roofing job at the City and County Building yesterday, saying the noise disrupted his courtroom.

He ordered two men in charge of the roofing crew brought before him, instructed them to put a stop to the hammering and called a hearing for today to determine who approved the pounding job over his court.

Parents Warned

POMEROY (AP) — Parents have been warned at nearby Middleport to check their children's playthings. Police Chief Russell Bailey said 550 dynamite caps were stolen recently, possibly by youngsters.

Terrorists Shot

TUNIS (AP)—Two Tunisian terrorists were executed yesterday by a firing squad in Sousse, 160 miles southeast of here. They had been convicted of assassinating a French colonel in 1952.

4 Counts Face Ex-Convict, 32

BALTIMORE (AP) — William C. Thomas, 32, convicted of murder, rape, robbery and burglary, awaited sentence today on all four counts.

Thomas, an ex-convict, was convicted yesterday of the slaying of Miss Della Honeyman, 67, in her grocery Jan. 17. He faces a possible death penalty.

Thomas admitted killing Miss Honeyman after she surprised him while he was trying to burglarize her shop. He admitted robbing her of $4,700 but denied the rape charge. He leaded innocent by reason of insanity.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time will show whether H. Struve Hensel was smart in letting the Senate subcommittee which is investigating the Army-McCarthy row dismiss him as a principal in the case.

That relieves Hensel, 6-foot-4 assistant secretary of defense, from having to testify and be cross-examined by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) unless he's called back because of an unexpected turn in the hearings.

But if Hensel had insisted on remaining in the case and testifying as a principal, he and his attorney, Frederick Bryan, would in turn have been able to put McCarthy through cross-examination.

Now, once these hearings are over and McCarthy resumes his role as chairman of the subcommittee, he can call Hensel before him and quiz him to his heart's content.

In that situation Hensel couldn't cross-examine McCarthy. No one can cross-examine a committee chairman. Further, if Hensel brought his attorney along to such a session, McCarthy could forbid the lawyer to ask a single question or make a statement. He has done that before with others.

And if McCarthy, when he resumes the chairmanship, doesn't call Hensel up before him, reporters are sure to ask him why in view of what he already has said about the assistant secretary.

On April 21, the day before the hearings began, McCarthy issued a 46-point bill of particulars answering charges made against him and his staff by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams.

Stevens, Adams and Hensel were — until the subcommittee dismissed Hensel yesterday — the principals in the case against McCarthy, his counsel Roy Cohn and Francis P. Carr, chief of his investigating staff.

In points 6 through 9 McCarthy explained he was looking for motives behind the Army charges. He fastened on Hensel as the mastermind and said Hensel had a motive: to discredit McCarthy's committee.

McCarthy said his staff had been investigating Hensel himself and had "confirmed" a "serious allegation" against the assistant secretary of defense. The senator said that Hensel, in the top procurement post of the Navy during World War II, drew large sums of money from a ship's supply firm which was operating with government priorities. Hensel vigorously denied any wrongdoing.

Yesterday Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) suggested that senators investigating the McCarthy-Army row dismiss charges involving Hensel and McCarthy's staff director Carr.

After some wrangling the four subcommittee Republicans voted to do it and the three Democrats opposed. Dworshak said not enough evidence had been produced at the hearings so far to sustain the charges against the two men.

Bryan, attorney for Hensel, said he was in favor of Dworshak's motion because he regarded dismissal of the charges against his client as a vindication.

McCarthy said as far as he was concerned his charges against Hensel stood.

Since he feels that way it would seem he left the door open to call Hensel before him later, when when these hearings are over.

McCarthy recalled that President Eisenhower recently ordered high government officials not to testify about conferences they might have had about McCarthy and the Army. Therefore, he said, Hensel probably could not answer very much at the present hearings.

Blind, Deaf Student Is Valedictorian

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Richard Kinney, 31, a blind and deaf student being graduated summa cum laude from Mount Union College delivered the valedictorian address yesterdy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time will show whether H. Struve Hensel was smart in letting the Senate subcommittee which is investigating the Army-McCarthy row dismiss him as a principal in the case.

That relieves Hensel, 6-foot-4 assistant secretary of defense, from having to testify and be cross-examined by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) unless he's called back because of an unexpected turn in the hearings.

But if Hensel had insisted on remaining in the case and testifying as a principal, he and his attorney, Frederick Bryan, would in turn have been able to put McCarthy through cross-examination.

Now, once these hearings are over and McCarthy resumes his role as chairman of the subcommittee, he can call Hensel before him and quiz him to his heart's content.

In that situation Hensel couldn't cross-examine McCarthy. No one can cross-examine a committee chairman. Further, if Hensel brought his attorney along to such a session, McCarthy could forbid the lawyer to ask a single question or make a statement. He has done that before with others.

And if McCarthy, when he resumes the chairmanship, doesn't call Hensel up before him, reporters are sure to ask him why in view of what he already has said about the assistant secretary.

On April 21, the day before the hearings began, McCarthy issued a 46-point bill of particulars answering charges made against him and his staff by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams.

Stevens, Adams and Hensel were — until the subcommittee dismissed Hensel yesterday — the principals in the case against McCarthy, his counsel Roy Cohn and Francis P. Carr, chief of his investigating staff.

In points 6 through 9 McCarthy explained he was looking for motives behind the Army charges. He fastened on Hensel as the mastermind and said Hensel had a motive: to discredit McCarthy's committee.

McCarthy said his staff had been investigating Hensel himself and had "confirmed" a "serious allegation" against the assistant secretary of defense. The senator said that Hensel, in the top procurement post of the Navy during World War II, drew large sums of money from a ship's supply firm which was operating with government priorities. Hensel vigorously denied any wrongdoing.

Yesterday Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) suggested that senators investigating the McCarthy-Army row dismiss charges involving Hensel and McCarthy's staff director Carr.

After some wrangling the four subcommittee Republicans voted to do it and the three Democrats opposed. Dworshak said not enough evidence had been produced at the hearings so far to sustain the charges against the two men.

Bryan, attorney for Hensel, said he was in favor of Dworshak's motion because he regarded dismissal of the charges against his client as a vindication.

McCarthy said as far as he was concerned his charges against Hensel stood.

Since he feels that way it would seem he left the door open to call Hensel before him later, when when these hearings are over.

McCarthy recalled that President Eisenhower recently ordered high government officials not to testify about conferences they might have had about McCarthy and the Army. Therefore, he said, Hensel probably could not answer very much at the present hearings.

Owner Of All-Night Beauty Shop Claims Fabulous List Of Clients

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Women are wearing their hair shorter than men now," complained ex-Sgt. Larry Mathews, "and this summer it's going to be even shorter."

Mathews, a tall, husky hair stylist who flew on bombing missions in Europe during the last world war, now operates what he believes is America's only all-night beauty parlor.

It draws a fabulous clientele after dark, ranging from housewives with insomnia to Metropolitan Opera singers, actresses, night club chorus girls and female impersonators.

"My hair is longer than half my clients,' " remarked Mathews. "The high style for women right now is the butch bob—very masculine.

"It makes a girl look like a Yale freshman in front, and a duck in back, and has just a few wisps of hair about the face to suggest femininity.

"The butch bob? You know what we call it in the trade? The idiot look! Trying to bring out a woman's natural beauty with a hair style like that is like trying to decorate an empty room. But it's what the girls want."

Larry, who had done aerial photography for Uncle Sam, decided when he returned from the war he would let the same uncle teach him a peacetime trade. He studied hair styling under the GI Bill of Rights program.

"You'd never believe the intimate things about their lives women tell their hair stylists," he said. "Maybe, because we also deal with their heads, they confuse us with their psychiatrists."

But running an all-night beauty parlor hasn't given Mathews any particular new insight into feminine psychology.

"They're no easier to figure out after midnight than they are before," he said.

Larry and his wife, Norma, operated a daytime beauty parlor for sometime.

"But our little daughter complained she hardly ever saw us except for a few minutes in the morning and just before her bedtime," he said. "I thought that if I opened a night place, I could spend more time with her.

"About a year ago the place really got rolling. My wife came by for a look one night, saw a bunch of chorus girls in the place, and said 'this'll never do.'

"The next day she had a 'for sale' sign on her shop. Two nights later she was working in the shop with me."

Larry and Norma now have 12 employes, operate their beauty shop around the clock, close it only on Sundays.

"Most of our night clientele are show people," said Larry, "and often our place looks more like a rehearsal hall than a beauty salon. Sometimes we'll have three singers in the same row of dryers rehearsing three different songs at the same time.

"Sure, we get some unusual requests late at night. One girl came in to get a martini washed out of her hair. Her boy friend had tossed it on her.

"About once a week a girl performer may show up with a black eye that has to be painted over, and dancers come in with black and blue marks that have to be covered up.

"One night a society playboy came in and insisted he wanted a permanent wave, but we just waved him out. Except for female impersonators we accept only women clients. We do make and style wigs for some 200 female impersonators.

"We haven't gone into toupees. But, boy, that's a growing field. I know some toupee makers who have become rich in the last few years. A good toupee sells for $100 to $300 and they wear out in a year."

His post-midnight trade has been so good Mathews is now planning to open a second all-night beauty parlor in an upper New York State resort hotel this summer.

"Two years ago I couldn't borrow $200 to buy a new chair," he said. "And now I've got everybody from bankers to bookies wanting to go into business with me. Can't figure why the idea of investing in an all-night beauty parlor interests them unless, like some of the customers, they've got insomnia, too."

Duck's Nest Costs Firm $300 A Day

SEAFORD, N.Y. (AP)—A mallard duck is hatching a nest of seven eggs in this Long Island community at a cost of $300 a day.

Builder Louis Hirsch, who is putting up 96 new homes here, is losing some $300 a day because he ordered a bulldozer driver not to uproot the tree where the nest is until the eggs are hatched.

It takes about 26 days for a mallard egg to hatch, but Hirsch thinks he saw a crack in one of the eggs and hopes the mother mallard is near the end of her sitting.

"I'm not sure," he said, "how long I can afford to wait for her to become a mother."

OMAHA (AP)—When Omaha went in search of an oldest resident to be the city's centennial mother, the oldest person nominated was Mrs. Margaret Deerson.

She, like the city itself, is 100 years old.

What to do? The centennial committee made Mrs. Deerson "The Adopted Mother of the Century."

264 Boys In Four Leagues; Youngest Rosters Listed

Dick Boyd, in charge of the record-sized "kid baseball" program being tuned for Opening Day next month, yanked the wraps Thursday from the battle forces lined up for the screaming circuits—The Little League, and its supporting "farm" loop, the newly-organized Mosquito League.

Formal announcement that the Mosquito League will go into action with the other three leagues on June 14 served to push the already-huge program into new record levels for this district. And it means that approximately 264 boys, living in Circleville and other parts of Pickaway County, will have an opportunity openly envied by their baseball-minded fathers.

Last year's program, when the nation's "kid baseball" fever first caught fire here, has now been virtually doubled.

Aware of this, players and fans alike are turning increased attention to the playing facilities on hand to carry the tremendous load of diamond enthusiasts this Summer. Circleville Kiwanis Club has made "kid baseball" part of its annual park program, and the City Park Board has already achieved numerous major improvements in the big Northend recreational spot.

BUT LEADERS in all sections of the program emphasize that work remains to be done, and that close coordination throughout will be needed. The entire program—along with big softball and inter-city baseball plans—will have to be confined to the park's two diamonds.

Likewise, it has been stressed, the park will have to serve other segments of the public not primarily interested in the diamond sports.

Boyd for the first time this Summer is launching the Mosquito League with a two-fold purpose. It will care for an overflow of youngsters who want to play in the Little League, and it can also serve as a "farm" circuit for that loop. The sponsoring groups for each of the two leagues are identical.

Team Rosters and the team managers for the Little League were announced as follows:

ROTARY

MANAGERS—Abe Rihl and Dick Hartinger.

KIWANIS

MANAGERS — Roger Bennington and Dick Rhoads.

ELKS

Cal Ellis, Brent Bell, Richard Fyffe, Bob Shadley, Larry Hannahs, John Jones, Kenneth Jones, Billy Ballou, Clarence Thompson, Gene Hansen, Tom Ward, Larry Justice, David Young, Harold Arledge, Paul Smith, James Laveck.

MANAGERS —Ron Bennington and Charlie Waple.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

MANAGERS — Fred Davis and Chuck Rihl.

Team rosters for the Mosquito League were announced as follows:

ROTARY

Harold Manbevers, Ted Curry, Jimmy Allen, Robert Waple, David Hannahs, Philip Wing, Creed Stonerock, David Powell, Jimmy Cassidy, Larry Powell, Billy Myers, Gary Harrison.

KIWANIS

Eugene Clifton, Gary Francis, Don Phifer, Buddy Sisco, Petey Ehmling, Danny Moffitt, Carl Stonerock, Randall McNeal, Robert Reed, Brent McCollister, Sonny Chester, Butch Hill.

ELKS

GENERAL ELECTRIC

Larry McDowell, Donald Brennon, Dessel Fyffe, Larry Dollison, Larry Plum, Johnny Grigg, David Bass, Leroy Clark, Bob Moyer, Leroy Hagen, James Siniff, Bowman Henry.

All games for the Mosquito League will start at 3 p. m. at the park, and the first game will be played Monday, June 14.

On that day, Rotary will play Kiwanis. And on the following day, the Elks will play General Electric.

Alert Chisox Clip Indians, Gain In Race

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chicago's swift and thieving White Sox, who play baseball as if it were a running and throwing contest, moved to within a half game of the league-leading Cleveland Indians yesterday by beating the Tribe 5-4.

While pitcher Mike Garcia took his time in windup, the Sox stole second base five times, setting up their first three scores. They collected another tally on reliefer Ray Narleski's wild pitch and got the clincher on a single by Cass Michaels.

Two Cleveland scoring attempts were cut off at the plate by accurate throws by outfielders Minnie Minoso and Johnny Groth as the Tribe lost its second straight game after running up a string of 11 victories.

Al Rosen, playing despite a sprained right index finger which was injured by a ground ball, hit his 12th home run of the year in Cleveland's half of the sixth and drove in Bobby Avila with a double in the fourth. Avila also doubled.

Rosen crossed the plate himself that inning, reaching third as Larry Doby grounded out and scoring as Ferris Fain at first base fumbled a grounder.

Pinch-hitter Joe Ginsberg tripled in the top of the ninth to tie the score after George Strickland singled with one out.

Groth nailed Ginsberg at home to end that rally after catching a fly in center field.

Minoso's peg was in the seventh when Strickland tried to make it in from third on a liner to left field by Al Smith.

Two Drivers Hurt In Spill At Atomic

Don McFarland finally won a feature race.

After running second to Gene Thimmes in three previous features, he shoved his Circleville running mate into the runnerup spot in Wednesday night's stock car feature race at Atomic Speedway.

McFarland also won the winner's handicap and placed second in the third heat and in the Australian pursuit. Thimmes won both of these events.

TWO OF the track's best drivers were involved in a double roll-over accident in the third heat and were taken to Chillicothe hospital. Jim Oney of Jackson, who won last Sunday's feature, sustained a leg injury and Ed Potts, of Beaver, was cut about the head.

It was the third accident at the track this year from which drivers have been hospitalized.

Second Heat—Jess Grider, Waverly; Buddy Young, Peebles; Wayne Hitt, Greenfield. Time—2:48.

Alert Chisox Clip Indians, Gain In Race

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chicago's swift and thieving White Sox, who play baseball as if it were a running and throwing contest, moved to within a half game of the league-leading Cleveland Indians yesterday by beating the Tribe 5-4.

While pitcher Mike Garcia took his time in windup, the Sox stole second base five times, setting up their first three scores. They collected another tally on reliefer Ray Narleski's wild pitch and got the clincher on a single by Cass Michaels.

Two Cleveland scoring attempts were cut off at the plate by accurate throws by outfielders Minnie Minoso and Johnny Groth as the Tribe lost its second straight game after running up a string of 11 victories.

Al Rosen, playing despite a sprained right index finger which was injured by a ground ball, hit his 12th home run of the year in Cleveland's half of the sixth and drove in Bobby Avila with a double in the fourth. Avila also doubled.

Rosen crossed the plate himself that inning, reaching third as Larry Doby grounded out and scoring as Ferris Fain at first base fumbled a grounder.

Pinch-hitter Joe Ginsberg tripled in the top of the ninth to tie the score after George Strickland singled with one out.

Groth nailed Ginsberg at home to end that rally after catching a fly in center field.

Minoso's peg was in the seventh when Strickland tried to make it in from third on a liner to left field by Al Smith.

Two Drivers Hurt In Spill At Atomic

Don McFarland finally won a feature race.

After running second to Gene Thimmes in three previous features, he shoved his Circleville running mate into the runnerup spot in Wednesday night's stock car feature race at Atomic Speedway.

McFarland may have needed only longer distance to accomplish victory for the feature was stepped up to 25 laps instead of the previous 20.

McFarland also won the winner's handicap and placed second in the third heat and in the Australian pursuit. Thimmes won both of these events.

TWO OF the track's best drivers were involved in a double roll-over accident in the third heat and were taken to Chillicothe hospital. Jim Oney of Jackson, who won last Sunday's feature, sustained a leg injury and Ed Potts, of Beaver, was cut about the head.

Giant Fans Cross Fingers; Bums Acoming

New Yorkers Ranked Second And Brooklyn Series Seen Important

By The Associated Press

New York Giant fans, still basking in the fading glories of 1951, bragged today about a five-game winning streak, then cautiously crossed their fingers. Brooklyn's coming.

The Dodgers invade the Polo Grounds for a three-game series starting tomorrow night against a Giant club that has been showing more signs of life than most experts expected.

Leo Durocher's athletes have tended to streaks this spring and the last five days have been one of their good periods. By whipping Pittsburgh 2-1 yesterday they took over second place, a game and a half behind Milwaukee.

The Brooklyn series won't make or break the Giants. But if they happen to sweep three games, or even gain a 2-1 edge in decisive fashion, they'll find themselves in the midst of the hottest pennant talk since they knocked off Brooklyn three years ago.

In yesterday's game New York got only four hits, a single and a home run by weak-hitting Davey Williams and two doubles by Willie Mays. Williams's single figured in the first run; his homer provided the winning margin.

Mays' hitting has been one of the brightest features of the current streak. He's raised his average from .260 to .304 with 10 hits in his last 15 times at bat. Included were two homers, two triples and two doubles.

Brooklyn fell to third last night, half a game behind the Giants, by bowing to the Philadelphia Phillies 8-6. Milwaukee won its ninth straight, 7-6 over Cincinnati. Chicago crushed St. Louis 15-5.

In the American League the Chicago White Sox closed to within half a game of league-leading Cleveland by beating the Indians 5-4. Washngton shaded New York 2-1. Detroit handed Baltimore its sixth loss in succession, 6-3, and Philadelphia shaded Boston 6-5 in 10 innings.

Two pitching streaks were broken. Robin Roberts, a loser in his last seven appearances against Brooklyn, went the route to victory in Ebbets Field despite a 10-hit Dodger attack. Eddie Lopat of the Yankees was beaten by Washington for the first time in 13 games, since June 26, 1951.

Del Ennis drove in five runs in support of Roberts and Willie Jones added to the Philadelphia total with a run-scoring triple and a home run. Duke Snider and Gil Hodges homered for Brooklyn.

Lopat got beaten in the last of the ninth inning when with two out he gave up successive singles to Pete Runnels, Ed Fitz Gerald and pinch hitter Jim Lemon. The victory was the fifth straight for Bob Porterfield.

Cincinnati fell one run short of catching up with Milwaukee with a four-run rally in the eighth. The run that made the difference came in the top of the eighth on Danny O'Connell's double, an infield single and a single by Andy Pafko, his fourth hit of the night.

Hank Sauer and Dee Fondy led the Chicago wrecking crew against the Cardinals. Sauer hit his 13th homer and drove in four runs. Fondy collected four hits, including a home run.

Chicago's second straight victory over Cleveland came in the last of the ninth when Cass Michaels slammed a Hal Newhouser pitch over Larry Doby's head in center field with the bases loaded. The Indians had tied the score in the top of the ninth on a pinch-hit triple by Joe Ginsberg, his first hit of the season.

Art Houtteman opened the ninth as the Cleveland pitcher but was yanked in favor of Newhouser when he loaded the bases without getting anybody out. Newhouser retired one man on a force at the plate before Michaels unloaded.

Gus Zernial hit a grand-slam home run for the Athletics, who finally edged Boston in the 10th on a pinch-hit single by Bill Renna. A double by Jim Piersall and long flies by Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen tied the score in the ninth.

George Zuverink got his first starting assignment of his major league career from Detroit and went the distance to victory over the slumping Orioles despite home runs by Vic Wertz and Sam Mele.

Griffith, star at 18

AN OUTSTANDING FIGURE in baseball for 60 years, Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Nats and one of the great pitchers in his day, is still issuing passes—but at the White House now. Griff, who is 84, started his custom of giving the president and the president's lady season's passes, along with a handbag for the First Lady, many years ago. Griffith pitched for the Chicago Nationals, Chicago Americans, New York Americans, Cincinnati and Washington and won more than 200 games. He started as an 18-year-old with a town team at Bloomington Ill. He has managed three clubs. (International)

Redlegs Drop To Sixth In NL Flag Race

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs today are back in sixth place in the National League and back at the .500 percentage mark.

Even unusual generosity on the part of Milwaukee wasn't enough last night to offset failure of the Reds to hit in the pinch and the customary failure of pitchers to hold the foes. The result was a 7-6 Milwaukee victory.

It was the ninth straight triumph for the Braves and boosted their lead in the league to a game and a half.

For the Reds it was a night of frustration.

Double plays helped Corky Valentine survive as the starting pitcher until the fifth but by that time the Braves had clipped him for three runs and a lead they never relinquished.

Howie Judson was the victim of another three-run Milwaukee outburst in the seventh and Bud Podbielan yielded what prove to be the Braves' winning run in the eighth.

By the time tne last of the eighth rolled around the Reds were on the short end of a 7-2 count and it looked like a breeze for the Braves and young Gene Conley. It was then that Milwaukee got generous. But all the power of the Redleg batting order couldn't save the game in the ninth. Bell's third hit came after one was out but neither Kluszewski now Greengrass could get the ball out of the infield.

Chuck Davey Said Through As Pro Boxer

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Davey appears through as a professional boxer, ending one of television's first births of a national hero.

Davey was more than self-made; he was television made.

He advanced undefeated through a series of warmups, backed by the International Boxing Club, until he reached the top—a title fight with welterweight champion Kid Gavilan 15 months ago.

His bubble, incubated with painstaking care with an eye on a national following born from television, was then burst by Gaviian, who stopped him in the 10th.

Vince Martinez last night in the same Chicago Stadium ring showed less mercy than Gavilan. He kept Davey, the ex-Michigan State collegiate champion, off balance with strong left jabs, something unheard of by a right-hander against a southpaw like Chuck.

And when he threw his rights, the balding Davey was shaken down to his dancing feet. Davey went down four times—in the first round from a steaming right to the jaw; twice in the third from stiff left hooks, although Referee Frank Skiora ruled a slip on one of them; and again for an eight count in the sixth from a series of rights.

"It's a rough statement to make that Davey is through," said his manager, Hec Knowles, after the heartbroken boxer with a masters degree in education had been led to his dressing room. "But I will recommend that he quit the ring now. He was 100 per cent in condition coming into this bout. What happened? I don't know. He didn't have it."

Delaware Drops Friday Racing

DELAWARE — Grand Circuit harness racing, featuring the eighth renewal of the Little Brown Jug 3-year-old pacing classic, will be staged here Monday through Thursday, Sept. 20-23 this year it was announced today by Joe Neville, chairman of the Little Brown Jug Society.

This will mark tne first time in the history of the Delaware Fair that no racing is slated for Friday. Neville pointed out that with all the build up for the Jug, staged annually on Thursday, Friday's program served as an anticlimax. The Jug, carrying a purse estimated to be $70,000, will be raced on Friday should inclement weather force its postponement on Thursday.

Giant Fans Cross Fingers; Bums Acoming

New Yorkers Ranked Second And Brooklyn Series Seen Important

By The Associated Press

New York Giant fans, still basking in the fading glories of 1951, bragged today about a five-game winning streak, then cautiously crossed their fingers. Brooklyn's coming.

The Dodgers invade the Polo Grounds for a three-game series starting tomorrow night against a Giant club that has been showing more signs of life than most experts expected.

Leo Durocher's athletes have tended to streaks this spring and the last five days have been one of their good periods. By whipping Pittsburgh 2-1 yesterday they took over second place, a game and a half behind Milwaukee.

The Brooklyn series won't make or break the Giants. But if they happen to sweep three games, or even gain a 2-1 edge in decisive fashion, they'll find themselves in the midst of the hottest pennant talk since they knocked off Brooklyn three years ago.

In yesterday's game New York got only four hits, a single and a home run by weak-hitting Davey Williams and two doubles by Willie Mays. Williams's single figured in the first run; his homer provided the winning margin.

Mays' hitting has been one of the brightest features of the current streak. He's raised his average from .260 to .304 with 10 hits in his last 15 times at bat. Included were two homers, two triples and two doubles.

Brooklyn fell to third last night, half a game behind the Giants, by bowing to the Philadelphia Phillies 8-6. Milwaukee won its ninth straight, 7-6 over Cincinnati. Chicago crushed St. Louis 15-5.

In the American League the Chicago White Sox closed to within half a game of league-leading Cleveland by beating the Indians 5-4. Washington shaded New York 2-1. Detroit handed Baltimore its sixth loss in succession, 6-3, and Philadelphia shaded Boston 6-5 in 10 innings.

Two pitching streaks were broken. Robin Roberts, a loser in his last seven appearances against Brooklyn, went the route to victory in Ebbets Field despite a 10-hit Dodger attack. Eddie Lopat of the Yankees was beaten by Washington for the first time in 13 games, since June 26, 1951.

Del Ennis drove in five runs in support of Roberts and Willie Jones added to the Philadelphia total with a run-scoring triple and a home run. Duke Snider and Gil Hodges homered for Brooklyn.

Lopat got beaten in the last of the ninth inning when with two out he gave up successive singles to Pete Runnels, Ed Fitz Gerald and pinch hitter Jim Lemon. The victory was the fifth straight for Bob Porterfield.

Cincinnati fell one run short of catching up with Milwaukee with a four-run rally in the eighth. The run that made the difference came in the top of the eighth on Danny O'Connell's double, an infield single and a single by Andy Pafko, his fourth hit of the night.

Hank Sauer and Dee Fondy led the Chicago wrecking crew against the Cardinals. Sauer hit his 13th homer and drove in four runs. Fondy collected four hits, including a home run.

Chicago's second straight victory over Cleveland came in the last of the ninth when Cass Michaels slammed a Hal Newhouser pitch over Larry Doby's head in center field with the bases loaded. The Indians had tied the score in the top of the ninth on a pinch-hit triple by Joe Ginsberg, his first hit of the season.

Art Houtteman opened the ninth as the Cleveland pitcher but was yanked in favor of Newhouser when he loaded the bases without getting anybody out. Newhouser retired one man on a force at the plate before Michaels unloaded.

Gus Zernial hit a grand-slam home run for the Athletics, who finally edged Boston in the 10th on a pinch-hit single by Bill Renna. A double by Jim Piersall and long flies by Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen tied the score in the ninth.

George Zuverink got his first starting assignment of his major league career from Detroit and went the distance to victory over the slumping Orioles despite home runs by Vic Wertz and Sam Mele.

Griffith, star at 18

AN OUTSTANDING FIGURE in baseball for 60 years, Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Nats and one of the great pitchers in his day, is still issuing passes—but at the White House now. Griff, who is 84, started his custom of giving the president and the president's lady season's passes, along with a handbag for the First Lady, many years ago. Griffith pitched for the Chicago Nationals, Chicago Americans, New York Americans, Cincinnati and Washington and won more than 200 games. He started as an 18-year-old with a town team at Bloomington Ill. He has managed three clubs. (International)

Redlegs Drop To Sixth In NL Flag Race

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs today are back in sixth place in the National League and back at the .500 percentage mark.

Even unusual generosity on the part of Milwaukee wasn't enough last night to offset failure of the Reds to hit in the pinch and the customary failure of pitchers to hold the foes. The result was a 7-6 Milwaukee victory.

It was the ninth straight triumph for the Braves and boosted their lead in the league to a game and a half.

For the Reds it was a night of frustration.

Double plays helped Corky Valentine survive as the starting pitcher until the fifth but by that time the Braves had clipped him for three runs and a lead they never relinquished.

Howie Judson was the victim of another three-run Milwaukee outburst in the seventh and Bud Podbielan yielded what prove to be the Braves' winning run in the eighth.

By the time the last of the eighth rolled around the Reds were on the short end of a 7-2 count and it looked like a breeze for the Braves and young Gene Conley. It was then that Milwaukee got generous. But all the power of the Redleg batting order couldn't save the game in the ninth. Bell's third hit came after one was out but neither Kluszewski now Greengrass could get the ball out of the infield.

Chuck Davey Said Through As Pro Boxer

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Davey appears through as a professional boxer, ending one of television's first births of a national hero.

Davey was more than self-made; he was television made.

He advanced undefeated through a series of warmups, backed by the International Boxing Club, until he reached the top—a title fight with welterweight champion Kid Gavilan 15 months ago.

His bubble, incubated with painstaking care with an eye on a national following born from television, was then burst by Gavilan, who stopped him in the 10th.

Vince Martinez last night in the same Chicago Stadium ring showed less mercy than Gavilan. He kept Davey, the ex-Michigan State collegiate champion, off balance with strong left jabs, something unheard of by a right-hander against a southpaw like Chuck.

And when he threw his rights, the balding Davey was shaken down to his dancing feet. Davey went down four times—in the first round from a steaming right to the jaw; twice in the third from stiff left hooks, although Referee Frank Skiora ruled a slip on one of them; and again for an eight count in the sixth from a series of rights.

"It's a rough statement to make that Davey is through," said his manager, Hec Knowles, after the heartbroken boxer with a masters degree in education had been led to his dressing room. "But I will recommend that he quit the ring now. He was 100 per cent in condition coming into this bout. What happened? I don't know. He didn't have it."

Delaware Drops Friday Racing

DELAWARE — Grand Circuit harness racing, featuring the eighth renewal of the Little Brown Jug 3-year-old pacing classic, will be staged here Monday through Thursday, Sept. 20-23 this year it was announced today by Joe Neville, chairman of the Little Brown Jug Society.

This will mark the first time in the history of the Delaware Fair that no racing is slated for Friday. Neville pointed out that with all the build up for the Jug, staged annually on Thursday, Friday's program served as an anticlimax. The Jug, carrying a purse estimated to be $70,000, will be raced on Friday should inclement weather force its postponement on Thursday.

Griffith News Notes

We have to remodel and enlarge our store again. Hope this will be the last time for awhile. Business just seems to keep increasing. We are glad of course, who wouldn't be, but to remodel we will have to sell much of the present goods out, due to dirt and dust and muss we'll make—so if you want a bargain you'll find it here. . . . .and in good high quality furniture and rugs, too.

We just received another shipment of "Swing King" contour chairs. Maybe you saw in the June "American Home" where we are listed as the dealer in Circleville for them. They are fine chairs which just seem to beg you to relax and take it easy in them.

Fellow at church Sunday told us —"You couldn't buy that Swing King chair back from me for twice the money I paid you." That is a pretty nice compliment for them we thought.

If you are in the market for a rug this is certainly a fine time to get one, a good one, and have the fun of saving some money too.

We've been very lucky this year to make some good buys ourselves in mighty fine rugs that gave us the opportunity to save you some money. We have some dandy ones now that we know you would be proud to have in your home.

Prices are exceptionally low due to the coming remodeling.

Our wallpaper department is prepared for the rush we'll have when you see this 9c sale price on this page.

The furnaces can be shut off now, so if you haven't bought your wallpaper yet, this is the time to save a little money on it too.

Patterns are outstanding this year.

We are enjoying the furniture business very much. It is extremely interesting and we are looking forward to a trip to the Chicago market in late June where we will see very type and kind of furniture.

We were delighted at the franchises we have been given by the finest furniture manufacturers.

We think we'll have some pleasant surprises for you in August when we really get into full swing in the furniture business.

Spring is the time for new window shades, and we can give you a limited number of slightly soiled shades for a fifty-cent savings to you. These window shades can be made good as new by using a simple pencil eraser on the soiled spots.

We also have a special deal on Quaker wall covering for the "do-it-yourself" trade. With each purchase of ten yards or more of Quaker wall we will furnish a free installation kit. So fix up the old kitchen or bathroom walls yourself at great savings.

We still, of course, have the best linoleum and carpet mechanics in the business for the very discriminating.

Since our advertisement on this page was written we have received notice that by the time this appears we will have received a shipment of the most gorgeous lamps you have ever seen.

We shopped carefully for these lamps and were lucky enough to secure the franchise for a line which is considered the best in the country. It is handled by the best decorator stores in the country and we felt quite elated to get these for you.

You are certainly invited to come in and see these lamps. We think you'll like them.

We have received several rolls of extra heavy carpet in a special weaving which are outstanding in design. If you are looking for a carpet which combines outstanding wear with the best of colors and styling, ask any of us to show them to you.

Due to this remodeling we will have most attractive prices on the carpet.

Sofa beds are on the way and we hope will be here for this week-end. We will give you a good trade-in on these also.

Many new colors in Bigelow cotton carpet at $4.95 a yard are now on display. If you want to carpet a bed room or television room these are wonderful.

Many, many homes in this community are getting that new look with our Johnston paint. If you are decorating with paint you'll find there are 120 colors in flats, semi-gloss and enamels. A complete selection of colors are available in rubber base.

Many new booklets on decorating have been arriving to help you with your home planning. They are free for the asking and we want you to have all you need to help you. Get some when you are in this week-end.

We were delighted at the franchises we have been given by the finest furniture manufacturers.

We think we'll have some pleasant surprises for you in August when we really get into full swing in the furniture business.

Spring is the time for new window shades, and we can give you a limited number of slightly soiled shades for a fifty-cent savings to you. These window shades can be made good as new by using a simple pencil eraser on the soiled spots.

We also have a special deal on Quaker wall covering for the "do-it-yourself" trade. With each purchase of ten yards or more of Quaker wall we will furnish a free installation kit. So fix up the old kitchen or bathroom walls yourself at great savings.

We still, of course, have the best linoleum and carpet mechanics in the business for the very discriminating.

Since our advertisement on this page was written we have received notice that by the time this appears we will have received a shipment of the most gorgeous lamps you have ever seen.

We shopped carefully for these lamps and were lucky enough to secure the franchise for a line which is considered the best in the country. It is handled by the best decorator stores in the country and we felt quite elated to get these for you.

You are certainly invited to come in and see these lamps. We think you'll like them.

We have received several rolls of extra heavy carpet in a special weaving which are outstanding in design. If you are looking for a carpet which combines outstanding wear with the best of colors and styling, ask any of us to show them to you.

Due to this remodeling we will have most attractive prices on the carpet.

Sofa beds are on the way and we hope will be here for this week-end. We will give you a good trade-in on these also.

Many new colors in Bigelow cotton carpet at $4.95 a yard are now on display. If you want to carpet a bed room or television room these are wonderful.

Many, many homes in this community are getting that new look with our Johnston paint. If you are decorating with paint you'll find there are 120 colors in flats, semi-gloss and enamels. A complete selection of colors are available in rubber base.

Many new booklets on decorating have been arriving to help you with your home planning. They are free for the asking and we want you to have all you need to help you. Get some when you are in this week-end.
